ANOTHER SMELTER FOR THE ISLAND

Will be Built on West Coast to Handle Ore From Southern Cross and Other Mines.

Another smelter is in prospect for Vancouver Island. The enterprise will be undertaken by the Southern Cross Mining & Smelting Company, and £100,000 has already been subscribed for the work.

The construction of the smelter plant will probably be commenced this winter or early next spring. Its location is to be somewhere near the mouth of the Alberni canal, in the neighborhood of the copper areas owned by the Southern Cross Company, initial plans for the active development of which have already been made. A wharf for handling material and supplies has already been built in connection with the property and arrangements started so that the work can be pushed ahead, when the company decides upon earnest operations, without a minute preparatory delay. The Southern Cross property is said to be a good one, and the company already has a large quantity of ore blocked out.

In this enterprise British capital is enlisted almost exclusively. Arthur Hebden, of London, secretary of the company, made a recent visit to Victoria, and in company with H. Cecil, who is locally interested, went over the company's holdings, and also had a look at some other copper propositions on the Island. Mr. Cecil says that Mr. Hibden was quite satisfied with the look of the company's investments here.

Mr. Cecil, who has but lately returned from a long stay in the Old Country, where he was interested in engaging capital to the development of copper areas, including those of the Southern Cross and the Chemainus Copper Company's property near Chemainus, informed a Times reporter last evening that a very noticeable improvement had recently occurred in the standing of British Columbia mining investments. Confidence in the country, which had been shaken by wild cat operations, was being gradually restored, and the stocks of the two properties, which he represented were now quoted at an advantage on the exchange, and got special settlement.

It was not an easy matter to interest British capitalists in mineral prospects. There were prejudices to overcome. It was necessary to observe educational methods to show mining men that Vancouver Island had something to offer that was worth while looking into. For this purpose, Mr. Cecil adopted the plan of opening an office in London, where the prospects of his companies might be elucidated, and all information kept on hand that the skeptical investor might wish to have with respect to their properties and the mineral capacity of the country. Their office is located in the centre of the city near the stock exchange.

Mr. Cecil will leave for the Old Country in a few days to look after business there connected with the undertaking of the smelter project and mining operations on the Southern Cross property. He expects to return to Victoria before Christmas.

SIX THOUSAND FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

WIDOW WINS CASE AGAINST RAILWAY

English Capitalists Make an Offer For the Edmonton Street Railroad Franchise

Montreal, Sept. 28.—A jury yesterday awarded Mrs. Thos. F. Boylan $6,000 damages against the Grand Trunk Railway Company for the death of her husband who was killed a year ago at Rockfield, a suburban station while waiting for a train. The track there is a double one, and Boylan, the platform of the station being crowded, was standing on the track waiting for his train. Unknown to him that morning the company had begun running on the track oposite to that formerly used for westbound traffic. Boylan expecting trains in the contrary direction, was not watching, and was struck from behind and instantly killed. The jury held that the company was to blame for not having warned passengers of the change of tracks.

Fugitive Brought Back.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Detective McCaskill to-day arrived home from Washington, bringing with him Daniel Glass. Five years ago Glass almost murdered his cousin at Iberville, and while awaiting trial he scaped from the St. John's jail by filing the bars of his cell. A few days ago he got into trouble at Washington, and confessed to being a fugutive from Canadian justice. The police here were communicated with and Glass came back to Canada without extradiction.

On Strike.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The trouble which has been brewing in the factory of the Montreal Waterproof Company has culminated in another strike. About fifty men and women went out. Some weeks ago it was decided to change the system of operating the factory, and a contract was given to a Mr. Silver, who agreed to pay the same wages as was being paid by the firm. The strikers objected to the contractor. The manager of the concern says he told the employees that if they were not satisfied they could quit at the end of the week, and that about 50 went out.

(Special to the Times).

In a letter to the press Mr. King not only denies the truth of the report, but says that it was a malicious invention. He never at any time made such a statement.

WILL NOT GIVE WAY TO PANIC

SIR WILFRID LAURIER ON TREATY WITH JAPAN

Government Must Make Full Inquiry Before Taking Action--Reciprocity in Trade

(Special to the Times).

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—George Tate Blackstock, at the Canadian Manufacturers' Association banquet at Toronto last night, proposed the toast of Canada and the British Empire, and in doing so advocated Canada paying a contribution to the navy.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying, said Mr. Blackstock's conception was Roman unity and organization, while his (Laurier's) view was British individuality of communities. Canada's motto should be Imperial unity with local autonomy.

Referring to Canada's commercial relations, the Premier spoke of the preference to Britain. He said no one will find fault with it. No human institution was perfect. The preference was satisfactory and reasonably successful. He continued: "Had I my way we would have universal free trade with the Empire. We are ready for reciprocity in trade within the British Empire, but Britain is not ready for it. We will not dictate to Britain, as we don't want them to dictate to us."

Touching diplomatic relations, he said they were none as successful as might be wished. Britain's diplomatic record concerning Canada was a sacrifice of Canada's interests.

Speaking of the all red line proposal, the premier said it would succeed.

Taking up the Japanese matter, Sir Wilfrid said a certain section of their fellow-countrymen at Winnipeg had called upon the government to do away with the treaty. That treaty had only been in operation for two years. To renounce it would be simply to act in a panic.

"I am not disposed to act in a panic," said Sir Wilfrid. "I want to look about to think, to reflect, to inquire before I make up my mind, and it is necessary for the Canadian government to inquire, to think, to reflect and to say what is the best course to be followed in the interests of the Canadian people. To deliver judgment at once would not be playing the part of responsible men. It is the duty of the Canadian government to reflect, to inquire, to look about and if necessary, to send a commission to gather more information."

THE AMERICA CUP.

Yachting Expert Approves Action of the New York Club in Refusing Challenge.

New York, Sept. 28.—J. R. Shars, the yachting expert, says in an interview published here: "The action of the New York Yacht Club in declining to accept the challenge from Sir Thomas Lipton to sail a race for the America cup with a boat, not only of a size inferior to those that have recently raced for it, but of a type decidedly slower, ought to have the hearty support of every sportsman in the United States and the world.

"The America cup is without a peer as a trophy for outdoor sport, because it has always stood as the prize of the swiftest yacht in the world of the large type and because it has been successfully defended against attacks of the ablest designers and yachtsmen of the best yachting nation of Europe. Sir Thomas has sporting blood that is as good as his advisors are bad. Sir Thomas wants a fair race on the best terms possible Others want to get hold of the cup by hook or crook. They have waged a long war of words and succeeded in throwing so much dust into American eyes that a rule was adopted to discourage the building of swift boats. They have not yet succeeded in making the America cup the trophy of a class of houseboats."

NORTHERN RAILWAY.

(Special to the Times).

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—The British-Yukon railway will apply at the next session of parliament for an act authorising the company to construct a line of railway from near White Horse to the Tahkeena river with power to issue bonds.

The Australian coast is unbroken by any stream for nearly 1,000 miles.

FAIR CLOSES THIS EVENING

FINAL DAY OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION

Record For This Year Has Been an Excellent One in All Respects

The big fair of 1907 is about over, and it is very nearly the season for stocktaking. The propitious weather has no doubt had much to do with the extraordinary success which has attended the efforts of the society this year, but that has not been by any means the chief factor. Secretary Smart attributes the increased attendance very largely to the increased advertising which has been done. In every town of any importance west of Winnipeg and in the cities of the United States, which are adjacent to Victoria, big posters have been distributed and large bundles of other advertising matter.

The result of this is that every day this week the attendance has been much larger than on corresponding days of last year, the total receipts being almost $2,000 in advance of last season. Yesterday the attendance for the day was 5,730, bringing $450 more than the same day in 1906.

In summarizing the exhibit Mr. Guardhouse, who is considered one of the best authorities on the continent, expressed himself to the Mayor before leaving in terms which could not be mistaken. He said that Victoria had established a record in shows which it would be hard to beat. The exhibits and the amusements he considered of the very highest class, especially the stock, which came very near to perfection. These are not the idle words of an irresponsible enthusiast, but the well considered verdict of a judge.

Several of the judges have expressed their appreciation of the management, but especially of the untiring efforts of Dr. Tolmie, who is one of the vice-presidents of the Agricultural Association and chairman of the sports committee. This gentleman has been the very mainspring of the racing department, and is deserving of the thanks of the society and of the general public. F. M. Logan has also done very effective work in his department, and especially in connection with the stock judging competition, which was originated by him.

The secretary and his assistants have also done very efficient work in all branches.

This evening the Fifth Regiment band will be at the main building, and a large attendance is expected. The exhibits will remain in place until a late hour, so that if there are any who have not yet had an opportunity of visiting that part of the show they may be able to do so before the closing. The side shows are all running full blast, and special cars will run all evening

Towards the close of an affair of this kind suggestions in the way of improvements are always in order. One of the judges before leaving offered the opinion that something in the form of a gymkana taking place inside the ring in front of the grand stand would make a nice variety between the different events in the races. The cowboys who come down for the rough riding contests are very clever on horseback and could give a number of interesting stunts. There are also a number of gentlemen in the Duncans district who might be induced to come down and uphold the honor of the Island in a contest with these men. Messrs Mutter and Mainguy are riders of repute whom it would be hard to beat. At the Duncans show every year there is a gymkana which is the great feature of the show, and the tent-pegging, and other departments are wonderfully clever. A relay race by the cowboys would also prove most interesting, much cheaper and far ahead of trapeze work or any illegitimate fair attractions.

The fact that the management of the show this year relied upon the show proper to amuse the crowd has been the cause of much favorable comment. The mass of the people would rather watch a horse race than a gymnastic performance or trapeze work, and the permanent exhibits bring many hundreds who do not even take in the races. On citizen's day it was remarked that during the progress of the races the buildings containing the exhibits were crowded to overflowing. Men and women lingered to feast their eyes on the wonderful fruit and beautiful flowers which were to be seen both upstairs and down.

A large crowd are gathered this afternoon to witness the races which surpass in interest any of the former days. Tom Keene is entered in the open event and this fact alone is sufficient to induce all sporting men to be present.

A large number of exhibits are being taken on to New Westminster. Among these will be the horses brought out by Thomas Mercer, the cattle exhibit of Quick Brothers and in fact all the best

CLOTHING SET ON FIRE BY MATCHES

FIVE YEAR OLD GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

Attempted Murder and Suicide by Montreal Dressmaker--Rancher Probably Ended His Life.

Austin, Man., Sept. 27.—Little Reta Cuthbert was fatally burned while playing with matches. While her mother was in town and her father was with the threshing outfit, she and three younger children were keeping house. The children got access to the matches in some way and Reta, who is five years old, set fire to her clothes. She ran from the house, but before the flames could be extinguished she was very badly burned. All the medical care possible was given her, but she passed away.

Shot by Woman.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—Celiana Apointe, a young French Canadian dressmaker, entered a billiard parlor on St. Catherine street east, yesterday, and after a few words conversation with Ludger Houle, the manager, drew a revolver and shot him through the head. She then turned the weapon on herself, the bullet entering her head. Both were removed to the hospital, where the bullet was easily extracted from Houle's head. The woman is not expected to live. Houle professed to know no reason for her act, and says the woman must have been temporarily demented.

Boat Builder Missing.

Winnipeg Beach, Man., Sept. 27.—Regarding the sail boat mystery reported from here on Monday afternoon, a boat builder named Hygard, of West Selkirk, who had been building boats at Husavick, called in here for supplies for the trip to Selkirk. The lake was beginning to get rough, but he thought he could make the mouth of the river before the sea got too high. The boat he had appeared to answer the description of the one found south of Whytewold, and information was received from Constable Baker, of Selkirk, this morning that Hygard had not yet arrived there.

Rancher Disappeared.

Medicine Hat, Sept. 28.—It is feared that S. S. Stronach, a well known rancher, has fulfilled a recent threat that he would take his own life if he ever felt himself "up against it." The members of the local detachment of R. N. W. M. P. who have been scouring the country for Stronach returned to the city yesterday without having seen anything of their man. Stronach was wanted on a charge of stealing. He was in town Wednesday of last week and sold a calf to W. J. Hunt for $8. The amount was to be left at the slaughter house, but no more was seen of it. The mounted police getting wind of the affair, saw Mr. Hunt and he laid information against the rancher for the theft of the calf. Stronach's wagon and team were found in the outstable at Bailey Place and the police watched until nine in the evening, under instructions to execute a warrant. As the owner did not turn up the team was brought to the barracks. On Monday Mrs. Stronach, who had remained alone with her children at the ranch, became alarmed and walked nine miles into Irvine where she telegraphed to the city making inquiry about her husband. The police rode down to the ranch on Tuesday but as stated could see nothing of Stronach.

HEART-TO-HEART TALK WITH BORDEN

Western Conservatives Not Satisfied With His Policy--Must Make Radical Changes to Secure Their Support.

(Special to the Times).

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—During the recent visit of R. L. Borden to Winnipeg he was informed by western Conservatives that his policy had too many "ifs" and "ands," it was too non-committal and not sufficiently anti-corporate in its tone. As a result, Mr. Borden promised to make a number of changes with a view to conciliating his western supporters and securing much needed assistance in the ensuing campaign.

The meeting took place in the vice-regal suite at the Royal Alexander. Federal Conservative members, local Conservatives and cabinet members gathered to meet their leader and bid him welcome and wish him success. However, there was more than welcome in their hearts.

Since the enunciation of his policy by Mr. Borden at the beginning of his tour the party in the West has been dissatisfied. There was too much "milk and water" in its composition to suit the ideas of the West, where they wanted something vigorous; something that would stir up public opinion and give them something to work on.

After a long discussion it was decided that Mr. Borden must not be allowed to go further in the West without being told of the general feeling. The unanimous choice of spokesman fell upon Sanford Evans, a defeated candidate. The party had all gathered with the leader and the interview was nearly at an end, and yet nothing had been heard from the chosen orator.

However, Premier Roblin took the floor himself and discussed Mr. Borden's policy with a frankness which astonished that gentleman. The policy which he had considered to be inoffensive to any one and which could not hurt the feelings of the most fastidious, he found ruthlessly torn to shreds by his western lieutenant. Mr. Borden was told that he could arouse the sympathy of the western people if he came out straight and clear against corporations and stood for lower rates for passengers and freight on railways and cheaper postage. Further, that his very carefully worded statement on telephones and telegraphs was not sufficiently definite, and that he should come out in favor of government ownership. There were few fundamental principles of his policy which would draw the western people in support of his platform.

From time to time it has been suggested that Premier Roblin would organize and lead the western Conservatives in the next federal campaign, and it is said Mr. Borden expected his lieutenant's support when he came West. He was told, however, that he could not expect any support unless he reformed his policy. The latest reprort is that Premier Roblin, whose health is not satisfactory, fears to enter into a strenuous campaign, and that the leader in the West will not be the premier of Manitoba.

In the meantime Mr. Borden, after promising to make a number of suggested changes, has gone to the coast. He will be back in Manitoba next month on his campaign tour, and it is expected that by the time he begins speaking east of the Rockies there will be some radical changes in his doctrines which will bring to his aid combined Conservative forces of the West.

An Italian priest and a number of converts have been murdered at the village of Tawowli, and the Lazarist fathers' mission at Kangchowful has been burned.

Advices from Kanchowfu say that the Protestant missionaries there are safe.

INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF BREAD

Local Bakers Have Agreed Upon Twenty Per Cent Advance on First of Month.

Bread is to be advanced in price commencing October 1st. After that date the bakers of the city will sell tickets at 16 for $1.00, instead of 20 as at present. This means an advance of 20 per cent on the prevailing prices to the consumer.

Practically all the bakers in the city have agreed to the new schedule of rates which will go into effect on Tuesday next. The advance in the price of flour and the higher prices paid for fuel and wages are offered as the reason for this sharp increase in the price of bread.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Car Crashed Into Fence During a Race—Three Persons Probably Fatally Injured.

New York, Sept. 28.—In the first accident of consequence in the twenty-four hour race in Morris park, three were perhaps fatally injured and a score bruised. One of the cars going over sixty miles an hour crashed through the fence in the thirteenth hour of the race. The car was being driven by Harry Smelzer, of New York. He was struck by a heavy timber and thrown from his machine. It was found that his skull was fractured and he was taken to the hospital in a dying condition. John Clarke who was standing near was injured internally, and a boy named Fred Tapp, had a fractured leg and sustained other injuries. Crowds rushed on the track and it was impossible for the police to hold them in check. Many had narrow escapes from being hit by cars that were racing around the track, the race not having been interrupted by the accident.

BOY SEARED WITH RED HOT IRON

REVOLTING CRUELTY ON NORWEGIAN BARQUE

Young German Tied to Deck and Fed on Burned Crusts and Water.

Campbellton, N. B., Sept. 28.—From Bonaventure comes a tale of cruelty that would seem incredible but for the testimony of eye-witnesses. The victim is a young German and his oppressors were Capt. K. S. Christiansen, of the Norwegian barque Agat, and the first mate.

The Agat arrived at Bonaventure on September 1st and finishing loading on September 18th. The cruelties came under the observation of Stevedore Gallagher and his men. One morning they found the boy tied to a ring bolt on the deck. Both his hands and feet were tied and he could scarcely move. He was kept in this position for a day, it is alleged, and the only food handed him consisted of burned crusts and water. He told Mr. Stewart that the mate had thumped his head against the deck, and it had driven him mad. The boy was taken, bound as he was, and lowered over the side of the vessel, dipped several times and at length brought out more dead than alive.

On another occasion longshoremen saw the mate with an iron bar chase the boy up through the rigigng, the boy all the while screaming in a terrified manner.

Baring his neck and shoulders the boy showed Oswald Smith, of Campbellton, and others, marks which he said had been inflicted by the mate with a red hot iron. Mr. Smith remonstrated with the captain for treating the boy as he did, saying the boy could not uinderstand his orders.

Stories of the cruelties were brought ashore by the men loading the vessel, and they reached the local authorities, with the result that officers went on board and took the boy ashore.

They wired the facts to the German consul at Montreal. The consul wired to have the captain arrested. Both captain and mate were arrested.

The captain was fined $100 and the first mate fined $100 and sentenced to three months' imprisonment for cruelty.

Another German boy who was also the victim of ill-treatment on board the Agat ran away. He was caught by the authorities and was one of the witnesses against the mate. It was brought out that while the boy was tied hand and foot a cat was tied to him and he was subjected to other horrifying treatment.

STOCKBROKER SENT TO PRISON

EDWARDS SENTENCED TO TEN YEARS FOR FRAUD

Canadian Pacific Railway Officials to Visit West--Financial Outlook Is Improving

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—T. D. Edwards, the fraudulent stockbroker, was given ten years by Magistrate Daly at the police court to-day. The prisoner has achieved some prominence in the city, and there was considerable interest in the case. The words "ten years" compelled a hush of astonishment. It was more or less widely known that Edwards had a bad record, that his crooked dealings in this city were but the sequel to similar proceedings elsewhere, but "ten years," as an awed barrister put it, "is a long time." As the magistrate went into the details of the prisoner's past, as he showed him to be a smooth tongued villain, who defrauded every man he met, the justness of the punishment became apparent. Edwards is a big, heavily built man, with a hard face. When acknowledging the correctness of the facts about his past record, he spoke in a quiet voice that was scarcely audible. He has been sentenced before, probably more than once, but the "ten years" hit him. He passed his hand across his trembling mouth and eyes and had to be touched smartly before he realized that he had to disappear through the prisoner's door.

Coming West.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Very shortly after the annual meeting of the shareholders of the C. P. R. on October 2nd, Sir Thos. Shaugnessy with a party of directors will leave for the West in order to make an extensive tour of the whole system. A special train will convey the party. The president will be accompanied by several of the leading directors and shareholders of the road.

Financial Situation.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—An inquiry at the leading banks in this city to-day elicited the information that the outlook is much more favorable, from a financial point of view, throughout the three provinces of Manitoba, Alebrta and Saskatchewan, than was the case three months ago. As a matter of fact the merchants and business men generally have apparently heeded the warning note sounded all through these provinces several months ago by the conservative banking men, and this accounts for the improved outlook.

Presented With Medal.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was presented with a gold medal with his image on its face yesterday. It was presented with the object of commemorating the fair.

Lumber Sold.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—One of the biggest lumber deals in the history of New Brunswick was consummated when Sumner & Co., sold their entire property in Gloucester county to American capitalists. The property includes a large sawmill, a general store and extensive lumber areas throughout the country. The price was a quarter million.

Formally Installed.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Rev. Robt. Falconer, D. D., has been formally installed as president of Toronto University.

Takes House.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster has taken a house here and from November will reside here so as to be in Ottawa during the session.

Sudden Death.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—George McKay, aged 69, living near Brockville, was attacked with heart disease and died in less than a minute.

Assigns.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—B. Greenberg, who conducted a clothing store under the name of the York Clothing Company, has assigned. The liabilities are about $40,000 and assets about $37,000. A meeting of creditors was called to-day.

FOUR INDICTMENTS.

Charges Against Southern Pacific Railway and Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—The Federal grand jury to-day returned four inlictments of 124 counts against the Southern Pacific Railway Company and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, charging violations of the interstate commerce law. These indictments, if followed by convictions, are sufficient to render the corporations liblze to fines aggregating $2,480,000.

The defendant corporations are accused of secretly cutting to $1 the published rate of $1.25 on the shipments of rough matting from Japan to San Francisco and thence through the United States.

Judge DeHaven, to whom the indictments were returned in the United States district court, directed the summoning of either the general manager, the general agent or the secretary of each corporation.

MRS. CHADWICK ILL.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, the Cleveland "witch of finance," who is in the Ohio penitentiary, is seriously ill. This morning she had a relapse, which alarmed the physicians, but she rallied. Her death is not expected, though it is admitted that the outcome cannot be predicted with certainty.

MANUFACTURERS AND TREATY WITH JAPAN

Has Assisted to Develop Trade--Opposed to Hurried Action Towards Abrogation

Toronto, Sept. 27.—One of the last and most significant acts of the convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which has just clased, was to place itself on record as opposed to any precipitate action in regard to the Asiatic problem in British Columbia which might result in the abrogation of the trade treaty between Great Britain and Japan. The pronouncement took the form of a resolution which declared that the treaty has already done a great deal towards the development of trade with Japan, and urged upon the government the desirability of taking no hurried action.

The wisdom of the resolution was questioned by one or two members, one of whom characterized it as dangerous, but outspoken speeches in its support were delivered by W. K. George and W. Robins, and it was carried by an immense majority. Mr. Robins claimed that the interests of the mother country and her relations with Japan should stand above provincial or petty trade interests.

The resolution regarding the Asiatic influx was as follows:

"Whereas there can be no doubt that it is desired by all intelligent people in Canada that we should build up a trans-Pacific trade with Asia, from the results of which all parts of Canada, and especially British Columbia, would greatly benefit; and

"Whereas it cannot be doubted that the existence of the present treaty, favorable as it is in many respects to Canada, has already done a great deal toward the development of trade with Japan, and that the abrogation of the treaty would not only be disastrous so far as existing trade is itself concerned, but all hope of future extended relations with Japan would have to be abandoned; therefore be it

Resolved, that we do urge and recommend that the Dominion government, while giving due consideration to all interests in Canada, should take no hurried action toward the abrogation of the treaty, which stands today as the basis of a friendly alliance between Great Britain and Japan."

The officers of the association were elected as follows: President, Hon. J. D. Rolland, Montreal; vice-president, John Hendry, Vancouver; vice-president for Ontario, R. Hesson, Hamilton; vice-president for Quebec, D. L. McGibbon, Montreal; vice-president for Nova Scotia, T. McCuttle, Halifax; vice-president for British Columbia, R. P. McLennan, Vancouver.

The executive is considering Montreal and Vancouver for the next convention. About 250 members of the association left this morning for Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

There are 200,000,000 copies of the Bible scattered throughout the world.

Mr. Alfred Pleau, an expert machinist, 173 St. John St., Quebec City, Can., writes a letter to the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., given below:

MR. ALFRED PLEAU.

PERUNA STRENGTHENS THE ENTIRE SYSTEM.

"Two years ago, an accident necessitated my confinement for several weeks. The good health I had enjoyed was slipping away and there developed a complication of diseases. My physician said my case was one of general debility.

"Among the many ailments which developed was a serious attack of catarrh, which annoyed me considerably and kept me awake whole nights.

"I decided to give Peruna a trial and soon found it acting as a wonderful tonic to my system. The catarrh grew less severe and shortly afterward disappeared, as did also the various other maladies.

"I attribute my prompt relief and ultimate cure entirely to the use of Peruna and gladly recommend it."

OVER ONE HUNDRED PERSONS DROWNED

Floods in Spain and Southern France Claim Many Victims--Rain Delays Rescue Work

Madrid, Spain, Sept. 27.—The government to-day announced that the wine crop in the valleys of Andalusia has been ruined by the floods. The figures place the numbers of flood victims at 72 drowned and 67 injured.

Rescue Work Suspended.

Malaga, Spain, Sept. 27. — The renewal of rain to-day is causing fresh inundations and a suspension of rescue work. Picturesque valleys of a few days ago are now covered with water, and desolation reigns on all sides. The bodies of about 100 drowned have been recovered here and in this vicinity.

City Flooded.

Grenada, Spain, Sept. 27.—The lower quarters of this city are flooded. A large number of animals have been drowned. Fields are ruined and communication interrupted.

Southern France.

Paris, Sept. 27.—Dispatches from the flooded southern provinces report that the troops are still actively engaged in rescue work. Many people have been obliged to seek refuge in the tops of trees. The number of lives lost is not large. The wine harvest is almost a complete loss.

Many Doctors Failed

Dr. Hamilton Again Figures in a Case That Puzzled Other Physicians.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 28.—When the statement of Mrs. Stanley, of 148 Argyle St., was first given it caused no small comment, and again establishes that as a physician who understands his profession none excel Dr. Hamilton.

"For years," says Mrs. Stanley, "I have suffered greatly from a peculiar dragging weakness that resulted from pleurisy and asthma. Doctors prescribed but failed to advise anything of real benefit. A friend urged me to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut and I bought five boxes. They gave me renewed strength and energy, toned my stomach, enriched my blood and supplied just what my system needed. No medicine could have benefited more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I believe every woman would be helped enormously by using these pills regularly. They did me more lasting good than all the prescriptions I took in five years."

No man or woman in poor health ever used Dr. Hamilton's Pills without benefit; the depressed, ailing and weak they uplift and strengthen as a trial always proves.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Another explosion, the ninth, was added last night to the mysterious series of violent occurrences created by feuds between factions of Chicago gamblers. This time the explosion occurred in the down town district. A concussion, as mysterious as its predecessors, shattered the rear windows and doors of the Morrison buildings. The greater part of the ground floor is occupitd by the cash register business of Monttennes.

LINERS COLLIDED DURING A FOG

THE MONGOLIAN HAS ARRIVED AT QUEBEC

Passengers Were Transferred to the Hurona After the Accident --A Brave Stewardess

Quebec, Sept. 27.—With a slight list to port, and with her starboard bow torn open from the topmast rail to below the waterline, the once majestic Allan liner Mongolian slowly rounded the island of Orleans about 10 o'clock, and an hour later she was moored at the company's wharf in the port of Quebec.

The story of how the Mongolian and Hurona crashed one into the other, on the very border of the Atlantic, was then told and retold. But the exact reason why the vessels collided yet remains unsolved, and perhaps may never be authentically established. From what has been learned, it is quite apparent that a dense fog enveloped both vessels, and passengers from both the Hurona and Mongolian state that the foghorns of the two steamers were kept in almost constant operation, but as the sea was lashed to a heavy swell by a strong gale it is likely that the sound was deadened and thus failed to carry its message of warning.

The great redeeming feature of the accident is that not a single life was lost, though the event was characterized by all the sensational features following a collision at sea. There were the heavy jolt, the grind of crushing steel, the frantic rush for the decks, the lowering of the boats and rescue of the passengers, and then the perilous journey for a mile or two in a frail craft across a heaving sea to the other vessel.

Fortunately, a sudden dissipation of the clouds, showing the moon, cleared up the dark night, and this greatly facilitated the work of transferring the passengers. The damage to the Hurona is slight, only her planks being stove in, but the Mongolian has a funnel-shaped cavity in her starboard bow of some twenty feet across.

Rev. C. R. Bruillette, a French-Canadian Presbyterian clergyman, who is now a resident of Long Beach, California, was a passenger. He says the collision occurred about 7 o'clock on Sunday night. He was informed by officers of the ship that there was no immediate danger to passengers, but almost immediately afterwards orders were given to lower the boats, and the passengers were transferred to the Hurona. Great heroism was displayed by Mrs Dobson, a stewardess of the Mongolian, who refused to leave the ship until the third boat put out. In this a man who was pulling became suddenly ill, and Mrs. Dobson took the oars herself, and pulled the party to the Hurona.

THE OUTING MAGAZINE.

An interesting light is shed upon a very timely topic in The Outing Magazine for October by F. P. Lahm, of the United States army, who writes upon "Ballooning and Aerial Navigation." He reviews the history of ballooning in order to make the reader appreciate the importance which this new method of locomotion is coming to mean to science and to the different governments. "The Country Fair," by David Lansing, is an attractive illustrated account of a quaint institution that is now practically passed away.

Stewart Edward White, who has made a close and exhaustive study of Western social and industrial life, contributes to the October number the first of a series of papers on "Round-up Days."

Vance Thompson contributes some "Yarns on the Forward Deck." "The Little Outdoor Stories" are: "Jones, the Traveller," "Bill's Bear," "The Magic Bass," and "Picking the Spitzenbergs." Lynn Tew Sprague has an article entitled, "General Isaac Shelby, the First Governor of Kentucky."

"The Titian Beard of Wilkins," by Ralph D. Paine, is an article funny in its absurdities. "Hunting the Wild Honey Bee" has a timely and pleasant flavor. "When Life Is Worth Living" is an Outing article inspiring in its outdoor philosophy. Another instalment of Mr. Emerson Hough's story, "The Way of a Man," is given.

"Some Rattlesnake Fallacies," by Francis Metcalfe, and "Making the Country Home Ready for Winter," are among the departmental articles. In his "View Point," Caspar Whitney, the editor, reviews the lawn tennis season.

CRUISERS AT 'FRISCO.

Admiral Dayton's Squadron Has Arrived at the Bay City.

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—The first division of the Pacific fleet, the foreguard of the vessels which are to assemble in Pacific Coast waters, steamed through Golden Gate at sunrise this morning. The four armored cruisers passed the Heads in file formation, led by Rear Admiral Dayton's flagship West Virginia, then came the Colorado, the Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The arrival of the four sister ships marked the end of the 36,000 miles cruise, which began at Newport, R. I., last September.

Admiral Swineburne put off from his flagship, the cruiser Charleston, as soon as the West Virginian moored. The band struck up a lively air as Admiral Swineburne stepped onto the quarterdeck to greet the commander-in-chief. The brief formalities over, the two admirals shook hands warmly and at once retired for an official conference relative to the departure of the cruisers California, Charleston and St. Louis for target practice at Magdalen Bay.

San Francisco and California are keenly alive to the importance of the arrival of Admiral Dayton's squadron, as signalling the coming mobilization in these waters of the greater part of the American navy. It is regarded as an official notification to the world that the central government recognized the huge growth of the industrial and commercial life of the west and the vast part the Pacific Coast is destined to play in securing a fair share of the trade of the Orient.

KIPLING'S TOUR.

Celebrated Author Will Pay a Visit to the Coast.

Quebec, Sept. 27.—Rudyard Kipling, the celebrated author, and Mrs. Kipling were among the distinguished passengers on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland, which arrived here this morning. They left by special train for Montreal shortly after the arrival of the steamer.

Montreal, Sept. 27. — Rudyard Kipling accompanied by Mrs. Kipling, arrived here this afternoon. In an interview Mr. Kipling said his trip to Canada was for pleasure only. He intended remaining in Montreal two or three weeks, and then going through to the Pacific coast.

OUR FIRST SUCCESSFUL FAIR.

After a long fight against adverse circumstances and influences Victoria's annual exhibition has this year proved a magnificent success. It may safely be anticipated that when accounts are balanced a handsome surplus will be shown to the credit of the association. The faith of those who counselled after a temporary lapse in the series of shows, that the effort to achieve success be renewed, has thus been fully justified. The struggle has been a severe and a costly one. It was borne heavily upon the resources of private individuals and upon the municipal treasury. But fairs, once they gain a reputation for achievement, have overcome the most difficult obstacle to permanency. The hearts of the management become cheered; determination strengthened. This year's fair was a good one in most departments. But it by no means approached the ideals Secretary Smart and his assistants cherish. It was weak in several respects. Industrially it fell very far short of what it ought to be. The leading manufacturing establishments of British Columbia did not take all the interest in it they ought to have taken considering the opportunities for advertising their wares it afforded. We look for an improvement in this respect next year. We doubt not that immediately the business of the present year has been straightened out efforts will be taken to effect the necessary reformation. Necessarily some years must elapse ere the Victoria Fair can be brought to the state of perfection gained by such old-established institutions of the kind as they have in Eastern Canada and in other more populous communities, where all the resources at command are so much greater. Nevertheless Vancouver Island has entered upon her growing time. The improvement in methods of farming in all its branches in recent years in the districts tributary to the city has been next to marvellous. Probably there is no better stock to be found in any part of the world in proportion to the extent of the agricultural community than is to be found here. And this is not greatly to be wondered at. In what portion of the world are the conditions more favorable to the cultivation of good stock? We ought to have a good exhibition here—an exhibition which will attract exhibitors and visitors from all sections of Canada. That is the goal of our ambition—and we venture to predict that before many years pass we shall have attained it.

BLAMING THEIR LEADER.

The Times made a statement to the effect that Mr. Borden's visit to the West would not create a ripple on the political waters. We find now that it is necessary to qualify that statement. The visit of the Conservative leader has created a ripple, but not in British Columbia. It has made considerable commotion on the vast prairies. But it is not the kind of sensation that will be a source of satisfaction to either the leader or those who fondly hope he is going to carry the country at the next Dominion general election. The fact is the leader's obvious lack of determination or definiteness has exasperated Conservatives of Manitoba and the other prairie provinces in the highest degree. The Premier of Manitoba, who was expected to join Premier McBride in the great campaign from which so much was expected, has declined to take the stump, and has given his reasons therefor with somewhat discomfiting frankness. He has had his finger upon public opinion in the West, and the movements of the pulse have not been such as to justify him in giving up his position of a provincial prime minister for the uncertain dignity of a front seat on the opposition side of the House of Commons at Ottawa. In point of fact Mr. Roblin knows that the Laurier government is not only going to retain a majority of the present constituencies on the prairies; in the next House there will be ten new seats, and the administration will carry every one of them, according to authorities who are very capable of estimating the political situation. We feel sorry for Mr. Borden, with some of his leading newspapers in the East plainly intimating that he cannot win with the following behind him and his most prominent supporters in the West giving such unmistakable evidence of want of confidence in his leadership. Conservative leaders do not realize that while leadership is important to the success of a party, that there is something of still greater importance in which the party is lacking. Until they give evidence of the possession of some higher desire than the mere possession of office, their case will remain hopeless. But they will place responsibility for failure upon their leader. They have already done that; and we fear it is the fate of Mr. Borden to walk the plank.

THE ASIATIC PROBLEM.

The London Times chides the people of British Columbia for the narrow and circumscribed views they take on the subject of Oriental immigration and pleads eloquently, almost convincingly, for the "grand Imperial ideal." Our contemporary argues, and argues with reason, that when the people of any section of the Empire are carried into excesses by their local prejudices, they simply have no conception of the troubles they are in danger of creating for any government which may be entrusted with the management of complicated Imperial affairs. Great Britain as a world power has relations of the most important and also most delicate character with the Asiatic power, Japan. She has a great dependency in India, comprising hundreds of millions of people, a people cherishing possibly secret ambitions to be free from a foreign yoke, however lightly that yoke may bear upon their unwilling necks. Within the past year there have been murmurings arising from hundreds of millions of Indians. We have been told there is danger of another uprising here. There is no doubt steps have been taken by the Imperial government in anticipation, however remote, of such a contingency. The Times points out that the action of the Vancouver rabble is not likely to make easier or more pleasant to bear the burden of Imperial responsibility in India or to improve Britain's relations with Japan. There is no doubt that there is justification for what our great London contemporary says. But neither is there any doubt that local influences and prejudices are important factors in the internal affairs of Great Britain herself. The ego is just as well developed in the mind of the average British elector as it is in the mind of the average British Columbian elector. Self-preservation is the first law of nature, we have often been told, and we know it is true from all our experiences with the animal world, whether that world be high or low. The colonies believe the people of the Mother Country have displayed narrowness and prejudice in their attitude toward the important question of Imperial unity or Imperial trade relations. On this issue the colonial representatives have received but little sympathy or support from the representatives of the Imperial government or from the electors themselves. British constituencies by their verdict at the polls have practically declared their belief that preferential trade would prove ruinous to the industries which are the lifeblood of the nation. They will have none of it. The people of British Columbia believe that if the invasion of this province by Asiatics were tolerated the ultimate result would be disastrous to the white population. Selfishness, we admit, is the dominant factor in all these propositions. Under the circumstances, we cannot admit that the London Times or the Briton for whom it speaks is in a position to cast a single stone at British Columbia.

The Toronto Globe, a newspaper which in Canada occupies a position analogous to that of the London Times in Great Britain, a few days ago published an article dealing with the situation in British Columbia. It may be taken as expressing the views of all classes of moderates in this country, and is therefore worthy of being quoted in full. The Globe says:

"It is now quite evident that there is a strong and determined feeling in British Columbia in favor of keeping that Province a white man's country. It is also clear that this will be achieved and the chief cause of discontent allayed by a fair and honest adherence to the spirit and letter of existing agreements on the part of Japan. That nation has undertaken to limit emigration to Canada to one a month from each of the local districts, making a total of less than 500 per year. Although this is a large acquisition of a foreign race for a sparsely-settled Province like British Columbia, it would not be sufficient to cause industrial deterioration or provoke racial antagonism. The only need is a strict adherence to this agreement, and that our authorities are prepared to require. It is not intimated or suspected that Japan has any intention of acting otherwise than in good faith, or has any intention of evading the agreement honestly made. The breach occurred through the neglect of Japan to supervise or control the movements of her subjects sojourning in or travelling by way of other Pacific Ocean points. All that is necessary now is the supervision of this migration by Japan or Canada. Japan issues passports for some 500 Japanese a year to go to Canada. All that is necessary is freely to permit those who have passports to enter the Dominion, and to reject those who have not. This will merely be carrying out the letter and spirit of the existing agreement into which Japan voluntarily entered and to which that nation is evidently willing to adhere. The Canadian authorities would be quite within their rights in rejecting Japanese without passports, and directing their return to the port from which they sailed.

"Discussions at the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Congress have made it clear that the weakness of Canada's case lies in the antagonism of class interests. The employing classes who want cheap labor are not deeply worried over such distant problems as the yellow peril. They are promoting the influx of Japanese, sometimes openly, but generally in secret, on account of the strong antagonistic feeling. The Japanese authorities know this, and so do all Canadians who are familiar with local politics in the West. Premier McBride is accused of playing to the gallery by passing the Natal Act and then secretly advising Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir to withhold his assent. The Premier says he did not so advise the Lieutenant-Governor. This leaves it incumbent on His Honor to explain to the Secretary of State, Hon. R. W. Scott, why he withheld his assent. And the public are entitled to an explanation from Hon. Mr. Scott. The other side of the shield is shown in the report of a man, said to be in good financial standing in Vancouver, who bought several hundred revolvers in the East for distribution among the white residents of the western city. This coupled with the news of over 5,000 new and prospective arrivals at Vancouver, shows that those who still persist in promoting further violations of the spirit of the agreement are courting serious danger. There is an agreement and a fair adherence to it will obviate all cause of friction or antagonism. Japan has protested her willingness to abide by its terms. It now remains to secure the acceptance of an arrangement by which all Japs not authorized by their government to land in Canada will be returned to the foreign port from which they sailed."

John D. Rockefeller has only been making about one thousand per cent. on his oil investments. Yet the American people, who by their fiscal system have placed the opportunity in the hands of the Oil King, throw all the blame upon him and the courts proceed against and fine him. Is Mr. Rockefeller the only man in the United States or in the world, who would make the best possible use of his opportunities? Do we not usually commend men for doing such things as improving their talents?

The New York Yacht Club has decided that if the America Cup is to be sailed for at all, all contests must take place under the old conditions, imposing an impossible handicap upon the challenger. If Sir Thomas Lipton is a wise man he will abandon his proposed challenge. The New York club is evidently determined to keep the America Cup. Let it keep it. In a few years the world will have forgotten all about it.

What Other People Think

THE QUESTION OF DOMESTIC HELP.

To the Editor:—I would like to make a few remarks on the letter of Mr. Windsor in your issue of 27th inst. First, let me congratulate you on the policy of your paper in allowing all sides to be heard, even on the Chinese question, such policy being in marked contrast to the position taken by the Colonist, which paper seems to be in mortal dread that if it publishes the views of the majority of its readers it might suffer the loss of a few dollars in its advertising columns.

Mr. Windsor says the labor unions have not yet got the politicians in their pockets, but he evidently believes that they soon will be.

It is evident that the politicians of both parties allow too much weight to the noise made by the agitators who pose as the leaders of the labor unions. That this is so is clearly proved by the results of elections. When so-called labor candidates are in the field it is seldom that such candidates save their deposits, in spite of the fact that as a rule there is a three-cornered fight, which shows that when the workingman goes to the poll he votes as he pleases, and not at the dictates of his self-made leaders.

I believe that any candidate who would come out on a straight platform for the reduction of the head tax would be elected, as he would secure the common sense vote from both parties as well as a large vote from the thinking workingmen. Mr. Windsor writes as though he believed that it would be an advantage to Victoria if all who like to live in beautiful homes were driven out, and hints that the merchants would be in better condition in such a case. If that is so, you should call off your Tourist Association and advertisers generally from their efforts to attract residents, but I doubt whether the average man will follow Mr. Windsor's economics so far. Mr. Windsor and others like him have made so much noise that the business man has been made to think the views so loudly given out must voice the popular will.

The business man does not wish to be placed on the "unfair list," and so he seems to agree with the views of Mr. Windsor and his noisy friends.

It seems the important question is, are we to have domestic help, or is Victoria to suffer the loss of her chief glory, her beautiful homes?

A NEWCOMER.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 28th, 1907.

MR. WRIGHT REPLIES.

To the Editor:—At last a champion appears against the Chinese labor in the person of Mr. J. A. Windsor. It is a pity that he allowed his strong force of humor to entirely occupy his letter to the exclusion of any argument whatever on the question at issue. He starts by doubting the accuracy of Mr. Nimmo's statsments re the condition of affairs in South Africa. I may say that from the Natal Mercury and the Port Elizabeth Advertiser, which a friend occasionally sends me, and especially from the letters of another friend in Johannesburg, I am satisfied that Mr. Nimmo is correct and knows what he is talking about, and Mr. Windsor's invitation to wade through General Botha's speeches to get at the truth is quite unnecessary. The General is a politician as well as a soldier, and I have no doubt he knows South Africa as well as our own politicians know British Columbia, and yet when they go making speeches, although they know full well that British Columbia is suffering for want of Chinese labor, they stand up, look fierce, and say that they are unalterably opposed to the head tax being removed. They give no tenable reasons, but they know, and everyone else knows, that if they did not take that stand the irreconcilable labor unionists, who hold the balance of power at the polls, would see to it that such an imprudent politician was left at home next election. Mr. Windsor next proceeds to supply information about linoleum on kitchen floors not requiring scrubbing. I must confess that this is news to me, and probably it will prove a useful hint to housekeepers and bachelors. I only wish Mr. Windsor had given me this tip in my bachelor days, when I was struggling to make a start in my little shack on the ranch. It would have saved many a stiff back, and not a Chinaman's back either. This I can assert—with truth, as Mr. Windsor says when he goes on to declare that the tradesmen prefer the labor unionists' accounts to that of the man in the big house. I ran a store myself for ten years, and such was not my experience. I am afraid some grocer has been soft-soaping Mr. Windsor, or rather Windsor soaping him. Then Mr. Windsor gets after me with both feet because, as he says, I have acquired some valuable timber, and implies that there is something wrong in that. I only know of one way of getting timber, and that is by buying it in the open market as I did, and I can assure Mr. Windsor that I shall be more than pleased to let him have all the timber I have at the current market price. Then, if he could not get a Chinaman to exploit it, owing to that tax, why he could cut it himself. The Colonist says that sawing wood is good for people. Mr. Windsor lastly discovers a wonderful mare's nest in that Vancouver mill, in which (I make out) he insinuates I am interested. No, thank you, Mr. Windsor. No proposition where many laborers are required for "little Willie," as long as the labor problem in British Columbia is in its present shape. I am accustomed to taking chances, but I would hesitate a long time before I put capital into an industry in this country where the agitator and the walking delegate would have more to say in the running of my business than I would have myself.

SECRETARY TAFT'S TOUR.

Welcomed to Yokohama—Will Be Received by the Japanese Emperor.

Yokohama, Japan, Sept. 28.—Secretary Taft arrived here early this morning on board the steamer Minnesota from Seattle, passing all the signal stations without being sighted. The various reception committees and members of the American embassy who had come here from Tokio to welcome Mr. Taft, were aroused by runners. Secretary and Mrs. Taft and Thos. J. O'Brien, the new American ambassador to Japan, and Mrs. O'Brien, who are early risers, met the visitors from the shore in the main saloon of the Minnesota at 7.30, while the United States cruiser Chattanooga, anchored in the bay, saluted Secretary Taft's flag as the secretary of war, which was hoisted at the foremast. Secretary Taft, after a brief consultation with the reception committee and others, accepted a programme for his entertainment, but declined to participate in any function to-day or Sunday. On Monday the secretary will be received in audience by the Japanese Emperor, which function will be followed by luncheon at the palace. Count Hayashi, foreign minister, will give a dinner in Secretary Taft's honor on Monday, followed by a reception by the American residents of Yokohama on Tuesday.

Anyone interested will be cordially welcomed, as it is not intended to restrict the membership to those connected with the church.

—An exhibit at the fair which the Times has so far failed to mention is the slate roofing of the Pacific Slate Company. The quarry from which these slates come is situated on Jervis Inlet, about eighty miles north of Vancouver. The product is equal to the best Welsh slate and has been used very largely in both Victoria and Vancouver. The drill hall and the Roman Catholic cathedral are both roofed with slates from this quarry, and they have kept their color splendidly. Thirty-six men are at work at Jervis Inlet with eight trimming machines. About $4,500 has already been spent there, and it is proposed to supply bath slabs, billiard table beds, and stair treads.

—There was a pleasant function at the Vancouver-Quadra Masonic lodge last evening, the occasion being an official visit from Grand Master Frank Bowser, who is now making a tour of the Island lodges. There was a splendid attendance of lodge members and visiting brethren, and after the more formal courtesies of the lodge had been observed, the company sat down to a delightful banquet. During the speech-making which followed the Grand Master complimented the Vancouver-Quadra lodge on the fine showing it had made during the year, and saw the promise of another lodge in Victoria, in the progress that was now taking place. This evening the Grand Master will visit the lodge at Duncans, returning here to-morrow evening.

ANOTHER DAY'S GOOD RACING

TRACK RECORD WAS LOWERED YESTERDAY

Mabel Hollander Set a Standard For the Pacific North West Circuit.

Although the attendance at the races yesterday was not as large as on Thursday, there was a big crowd on hand, and lively interest was displayed in the five events on the programme. The feature of the afternoon was the splendid performance of Mabel Hollander, an added starter to the morning entries, who lowered the track record for the half-mile by 4-5 of a second. On Thursday Betsey broke the track record of 51 by 1-5 of a second, thus smashing a record that had stood for ten years on the Pacific Northwest circuit. Yesterday Mabel Hollander, in the non-winners' race, made the half-mile in 50 flat, a truly remarkable performance. There were eight starters in the race and the finish was an excellent one.

The track was in the best of condition for fast time, and the card for the afternoon proved an excellent one. The five races pulled off were all good and fast time was made by all the winners. Sandy Ned, owned by Caldwell & Speed of this city, won the first event, the gentlemen's driving race, in two straight heats, the times being 2.39 1-4 and 2.40.

In the second race, one mile, for the A. B. C. Challenge cup, Kamloops was scratched, leaving the race to Camaletta, Fancy Free and Max. The horses finished in the order named, Camaletta winning from Fancy Free after hanging behind for over half a mile. Just before the grand-stand Camaletta forged ahead and beat Fancy Free all the way around the track, coming home nearly three lengths ahead. Max was close up to the second horse, Fancy Free beating him by a length.

The third race was a great struggle between Nettie Bumpo and Dr. Scharff, although the last-named got away from the tape with a good lead of four lengths or more. Ethel Barrymore hung on the winner for half a mile, but Nettie Bumpo, the favorite, passed her on the turn and made a big effort to catch the leader. Dr. Scharff had too much of a lead for the fancy, however, and won by a length. Ethel Barrymore was third, two lengths separating her from Nettie Bumpo.

The fourth race, one mile, the Prince of Wales handicap, was the best race of the day. Rudabeck carried 119 pounds against the 109 of Katie Bell and May Holliday, with Callis carrying only 96. From the start the horses hung together in a bunch, Katie Bell leading from Rudabeck with May Holliday close up. On the second turn Rudabeck crept ahead and held the lead until the finish. It was anybody's race for the first half-mile, but Callis dropped behind on the long stretch. Rudabeck won by a length, with Katie Bell second, from May Holliday by two lengths. Callis was away behind at the finish.

Mable Hollander and Lady Mirthful were added to the list of starters in the last race, the half-mile consolation event for non-winners. The first-named was immediately fancied for a place with Lady Mirthful, a hot favorite, but the race finished a surprise for everybody, Mabel Hollander winning by two lengths in the record time of 50 flat. Gerolette was third a length behind Lady Mirthful. The track record set by Betsy on Thursday was lowered by four-fifths of a second.

John Boswell handled the starting barrier yesterday and gave general satisfaction. Every start was a good one, and the usual complaints of the losing bettors were noticeable by their absence.

Following is a summary of the results:

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREWS.

Success Continues to Attend Work in All Countries Where Chapters Exist.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Interest in the International Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews was heightened to-day by the presence of Bishop Ingram, who is the guest of President Roosevelt. The bishop is on the programme for to-morrow and is to be a speaker at the open air meeting on Sunday afternoon on the grounds of the Cathedral of Saint Peter and Paul, when the foundation stone of the edifice will be laid.

To a committee headed by Archbishop Nuttall, of the West Indies, who called at the White House, President Roosevelt expressed regret that owing to the pressure of public business before departing on his western trip, he would be unable to attend the convention. He, however, extended to the delegates an invitation to call at the White House to-morrow afternoon.

Among the prominent speakers at the general conference was A. G. Alexander, president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews in Canada, who discussed the importance of greater definiteness of purpose in Bible classes. Rev. T. W. Powell, of Eglington, Ont., at the meeting for prayer, spoke on the "Joy of Service." An address on the "Call to the Ministry," was made by Rev. A. S. Lloyd, of New York, secretary of the board of missions.

The Council of the Brotherhood in the United States in its report submitted to-day says: "Our relations with the Brotherhood in other countries continues cordial and helpful. Applications have been made to aid in strengthening the Brotherhood in Japan and to establish it in Mexico, China and Brazil. There are 46 more probationary chapters to-day than one year ago. More dormant chapters also have been revived. The treasurer's report will show a slight increase in our total receipts. There has been a steady improvement in all work undertaken by the Brotherhood boys."

THE AMERICA CUP.

London, Sept. 27.—The Royal Irish Yacht Club, shortly, possibly to-morrow, will cable a reply to the New York Yacht Yacht Club: "Resolution declining Sir Thomas Lipton challenge for the America Cup." This dispatch will further intimate under what conditions Sir Thomas is prepared to send another challenge. The decision was reached after a long conversation with Wm. Fife, the designer, who as stated by Sir Thomas Lipton, in his interview yesterday, positively refused to design a yacht to race for the cup under the old rules of the New York Club.

Fife, however, is willing to design a 90-footer for that purpose under the Universal rules, "which have been in use in America for three or four years."

Fife is still in London consulting with Sir Thomas Lipton, but he will not be interviewed. To Sir Thomas to-day he reiterated his former decision that it being futile to attempt to "lift" the cup with a freak boat, which would have to be sailed across the Atlantic, he, under no circumstances, would design such a vessel.

Sir Thomas agrees with this view, but he authorized the statement that he is ready to build a 90-footer under the new American rule. After the receipt of the cable dispatch from the Royal Irish Yacht Club, it will be for the New York Yacht Club to say whether there will be a race in 1908.

THE RING.

VICTORY OF GANS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—Joe Gans, the light weight champion, won another victory before the Pacific Athletic Club to-night when he received the decision over Jimmy Burns (George Memsic) of Chicago, at the end of the twentieth round. Burns showed class in a hundred ways, but Gans was in his old-time form and fought with all his accustomed cleverness.

The decision by Referee James J. Jeffries met with the approval of the 5,000 persons in the auditorium. Up to the 17th round Burns held the champion about even but after that Gans beat his opponent down.

Round 17—Gans held Burns at arm's length and shot his right to the mouth. Burns was bewildered but strong.

Round 19.—Gans put in a hard right to the jaw. Burns kept swinging, but could not connect.

Round 20—Burns forced Gans to jump away from his wild rushes. In the last minute Gans landed a right with sickening force to the stomach which forced Jimmy to cling to Gans' glove to keep from falling.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

NEW CLUB IN TRAINING.

The newly organized James Bay Rugby Club is determined to leave no stone unturned to annex the city championship. A further meeting for organization purposes was held last night at the club rooms, when it was decided that two teams, both a senior and a junior, should take part in the city games during the season.

A practice has been arranged to take place at Beacon Hill park to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock sharp. During the coming week training runs will be held from the club house on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, to enable the players to get into form for the championship game against Victoria on the 5th prox.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

ESQUIMALT WINS.

Playing for the first time in an exhibition game at Work Point yesterday against the Garrison, the newly organized Esquimalt team showed that it was a good aggregation, winning from the soldiers by a score of 4 goals to nil. On yesterday's showing the Esquimalt team should be well in the running in the Victoria District League. The Esquimalt play Nanaimo to-morrow, travelling to the coal city by the morning train.

Third—Policy Boy, owned by J. W. Considine, of Seattle.

In the all-age class three of the six dogs selected for the finals belong to Vancouver men. The owners are: Messrs. Hutchison, Bryce and Abbott.

GOLF.

CANADA'S LADY CHAMPION.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Miss Thompson, of St. John, N. B., holder of the title, again won the woman's golf championship by defeating Miss Dick, of Toronto, in the finals of the tournament to-day, after an exciting game by one up. Miss Dick played a fine up-hill game.

BATTLESHIP AGROUND.

The battleship Commonwealth, belonging to the Channel fleet, went aground at Lamlash a few days ago, and is now in Devonport dockyard for repairs. With other ships of the Channel fleet, the Commonwealth was cruising last week in Scottish waters, with her headquarters at Lamlash, on the Clyde. She put to sea for gun practice, and, on returning to Lamlash harbor, ran on some rocks at the entrance to the channel. At the time she was steaming at a very moderate speed and the impact was not a particularly violent one, but the vessel stuck fast. Immediately the engines were reversed, the pumps were set working, and the ship's company were assembled on the quarter deck to lighten the pressure of the bows on the rocks. These measures, aided by the rising tide, were happily successful, and within half an hour the battleship came off stern first into deep water. All the watertight compartments were closed, and collision mats were placed under the apertures to check the inflow of water. Then, with the pumps continually going, no difficulty was experienced in keeping the water under. The whole of the double bottoms was full of water, and 1,400 tons of oil fuel which she carried was rendered practically useless. There is some question as to whether the rocks on which the Commonwealth struck are charted, but it is known that the channel by which she attempted to enter is a dangerous one at low tide. The commander-in-chief, Lord Charles Beresford, ordered the ship to execute such repairs as were necessary to ensure a safe passage, and then proceed to Devonport. It is feared that the damage is extensive. The Commonwealth is a most unfortunate ship. Only last spring she was in collision with the battleship Albermarle off Lagos, when a large hole was knocked in her port bow. She was afterwards laid up at Devonport for three months undergoing repairs, and was only commissioned in May last by Captain Browning, lately flag captain to the commander-in-chief at Devonport.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CONVENTION

CHRISTIAN WORK IS DISCUSSED BY THEM

Several Eminent Speakers Addressed the Endeavorers Yesterday Afternoon and Evening

The Christian Endeavor convention now in progress in this city, is a decided success. The delegates are faithful in attendance, eager to absorb all that is good and ready to take part in the discussions and business brought forward. In spite of the fine weather and Victoria's many other attractions, the sessions of yesterday afternoon and evening were well attended and the enthusiasm reached a very high point. Dr. Horsfall, of Seattle, was heard with delight and inspiration. In a racy and free style he talked of missionary methods and mixed with a good lot of rich common sense, there was that sparkle of humor that so pleases an audience and helps to hold the attention to the last.

The Rev. J. A. Doyle was heard to great advantage as he talked of what the Endeavorer owes to himself, and Mr. Van der Maaten's address on "The Endeavorer's Inspiration Point" was one of the most thoughtful and deeply spiritual addresses of the convention.

The afternoon session opened with a discussion of "The Tenth Legion," led by Rev. A. W. McLeod of Nanaimo. Twenty-five thousand of the Endeavor societies had agreed to give one-tenth of their income to the Lord. This was an Old Testament principle adapted to these New Testament times. They enjoyed more and therefore should give more than those of olden days. The greater responsibility should lead to more consecrated giving of the substance to the cause for which they stood. It was not enough to talk about these things and agree to the principle, but it was necessary also to live up to the principles they believed in. The best test of the Christian character was the use made of the means one enjoys.

The Rev. W. H. Barraclough, president of the New Westminster Union, dealt with the subject of the missionary forward movement. This movement, he said, was closely allied to the Tenth Legion, for if there was to be any forward movement there must be consecrated giving. The student volunteer movement led the way in the matter of advance along the line of Christian Missions. But the Christian Endeavor Society was not far behind, and was ready to respond to the call for greater activity. There must follow systematic giving, which was absolutely essential to the idea. In these days there was concentration of thought and energy in the idea of supporting one individual in the foreign field, and this gave impetus to the missionary idea. The speaker mentioned the fact that a plan was on foot to erect a Christian Endeavor building in Boston at the cost of $500,000, and he sincerely hoped that in four years' time the International C. E. convention might be held in that new building. Boston was to be the great Christian Endeavor centre, and from it should go out that missionary enthusiasm that would mean much for the advancement of Christ's kingdom.

Perhaps the most interesting item of a very interesting afternoon was the conference on Missionary Methods, conducted by Dr. Horsfall, of Seattle. The doctor opened the matter by a splendid talk on the need of adaptability in mission work. With incident and illustration the truth was forced home to the minds of the hearers, and as the speaker proceeded, it was seen that his grasp of the great subject was suberb. His illustrations came from all parts of the mission field, and his knowledge of the heathen races and their manners and customs was remarkable. He was not afraid to touch upon delicate ground, and introduced the question of the Yellow Peril that so vitally affected British Columbia as well as other parts of Western America. The danger to this country was not so much in the color of the man who came to dwell here as the fact that he was steeped in centuries of the darkest heathenism. That was why the Yellow Peril was a question for the missionary as much as for the politician. Give the Oriental the knowledge of Jesus Christ and the peril would be past. The great need of the present day was that Christians should be less selfish and be willing to sacrifice more for the cause they profess to love. In practical manner Dr. Horsfall went on to tell how to organize mission study classes and how to manage them when organized.

H. W. Davies of the Metropolitan League, Victoria, read an interesting paper on "The Patriots' League." This was a new part of the Endeavor work, and had for its object the purification of citizenship and national life. The speaker made a strong appeal for every Endeavorer to be in earnest regarding the welfare of his country, and urged all to help raise the standard of national life to its highest level.

It was very appropriate that a conference on "Citizenship" should follow this paper. The conference was led by Rev. S. J. Thompson of Centennial church, and was very generally participated in by the delegates. Some interesting experiences were related, and some practical methods advanced. This brought to a close the afternoon session.

Evening Meeting.

There was a large attendance at the evening meeting, and the choir of the Metropolitan church rendered good service in leading the song service, and by some well rendered anthems.

The Rev. J. A. Doyle spoke on "What the Endeavorer owes to himself." The question was answered in one sentence by the speaker saying that the individual owed it to himself to get and to be the very best possible. He developed the idea in a taking manner by saying that man owed it to himself to have the best body, the best brains, and the best business that it was possible for him to have. The training and control of the body, fitting it for the strenuous uses of the times, the education of the brain and the choice of a suitable and congenial business were necessary to the best success. Many failures of today came from the fact that the individual had been forced into the wrong calling. The world put the wrong values upon work, for one calling was just as sacred as another if the man was in the place where God meant him to be. The speaker then went on to say that man owed it to himself to make the best of his moral and spiritual nature. Moral fible, decision of character, cleanliness of life and good old-fashioned honesty were essential to him. He should give attention to that part of his nature which was akin to God, call it spiritual or anything you like. There was something in man that responded to the call of God that should be carefully guarded and developed. To do this the word of God must be studied, the habit of prayer cultivated and work earnestly undertaken for God and humanity. The address concluded with a heart to heart appeal to each Endeavorer to make the best of himself and to do the best he could for the world around him.

C. E. Van der Maaten, the man with the appropriate initials, "C. E.," was the next speaker. He had the Christian Endeavor movement strong upon his heart, and his address was replete with beautiful thought and forceful illustration. The subject was "The Christian Endeavorer's Inspiration Point." He spoke of his visit to Inspiration Point in the Yellowstone Park, and the feelings that came to him as he gazed upon the wonderful view spread out before him. From this illustration the speaker led his audience to the inspiration point of all Christians, the life of fellowship. This life led to clear relationships to God, to a life of peace for themselves, and to more earnest work for the world. The address was most thoughtful and was followed with close attention by the large audience. It left strong and beautiful thoughts in the minds of the hearers and was fitting conclusion to the day's work.

Open Air Meeting.

The meeting held on the street previous to the convention opening in the evening was addressed by Rev. A. W. McLeod of Nanaimo. A good programme of music was given.

CONNECTION WITH THE NEW TERMINAL

Resolution For the Council Meeting to Allow the Passage Along Store Street.

Following the negotiations for the purchase of the Albion Iron Works property, which as noted in the Times, was practically closed yesterday, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is already preparing to take advantage of the increased yard accommodation which will be offorded thereby.

It is the intention to extend the track of the E. & N. to connect with the new freight terminal, as soon as the ground can be cleared up and prepared for the reception of the rails, and in this connection Mayor Morley will present the following resolution to the city council on Monday night, with a recommendation that it be passed:

"That the corporation permit the laying of a line of rails for the passage of railroad freight cars along Store street between the E. & N. depot and the site of the Albion Ironworks acquired by the company for a freight depot. And that an agreement be drawn up and signed and the seal of the city be attached thereto, and that this agreement be included in a by-law to be presented at the next regular meeting of the council."

The city solicitors prepared the agreement to-day. It is drawn up in such a way, according to Mayor Morley, that the interests of the city will be protected in every direction. Should the council pass the resolution given above, as it is almost certain to do, a by-law will be submitted a week from Monday to ratify the whole proceedings. The adoption of the agreement by the council will, however, be sufficient to enable the company to at once proceed with the work of preparing the new terminal so that there is not likely to be any delay.

The deal for the purchase of the Albion Iron Works property was put through by A. W. More.

THE FLOODS IN FRANCE.

Rivers Overflow Their Banks, Destroying Property and Causing Great Distress.

Paris, Sept. 28.—The flood situation in the south of France is a little better to-day.

The papers are filled with accounts of immense destruction caused in the department of Herault to which the damage is principally confined, and which is estimated at four million francs.

Reports from the departments of Herone, Gad and Vaer say that rivers everywhere have overflowed their banks and inundated the neighborhood, causing much distress. Authorities are hurrying relief supplies to the flooded sections of the country.

THE CUBAN CONSPIRACY.

There Has Been No Disorder on the Island—Trial of Prisoners Opens Monday.

Havana, Sept. 27.—The conspiracy situation is growing better every day. Governor Magoon is in constant receipt of reports from all parts of the island which show that nowhere has there been the slightest disturbance of the peace.

Governor Magoon to-day has been flooded with telegrams from every province condemning the conspiracy.

A special judge has been appointed to hear the evidence in the cases of the persons arrested for participation in the conspiracy. The hearings will begin to-morrow.

The government believes it has evidence to show that a certain New Yorker who recently visited Havana on a secret mission is implicated. This man was identified with the revolutionary movement of last August.

MORE WAGES.

Inquiry Into Demands Made Upon Canadian Pacific By Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The conciliation committee appointed by the government to look into the demands made upon the C. P. R. by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers for increased wages and changed conditions generally, held its first meeting this morning. Professor Adam Shortt, of Queen's College, Kingston, is the chairman of the committee, the other members of which are Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K. C., of Toronto, representing the C. P. R., and Mr. J. G. O'Donoghue, representing the telegraphers. There were also present a number of officials, headed by Mr. J. W. Leonard, assistant general manager of the eastern lines, as well as a committee of the telegraphers.

This morning's meeting was of a preliminary nature, and lasted but a short time. The method of proceedure was arranged, and the general plan of the conferences was drafted out.

INVESTS IN FINE PROPERTY

JAMES ISLAND HAS CHANGED HANDS

I. H. Wheatcroft, on American Railroad Magnate, Will Reside on His New Purchase

Irving H. Wheatcroft, president and general manager of the Kentucky Valley railroad, has purchased from Dr. G. L. Findlay and Lady Sybil Findlay the splendid island residential estate known as James island.

The island is located about one mile off the mainland of Vancouver Island, between Victoria and Sidney, and can be reached by motor boat and car, being within an hour from the capital.

James island contains 784 acres, in addition to the sandpits, which give it a total area of almost 900 acres, and of this amount approximately 700 acres is fine, rich, fertile land. There are three farms on the island, which, prior to the time the property was purchased by Dr. Findlay, were owned by three different land owners.

Since Dr. Findlay has owned the property he has improved it very extensively, having had fifty-two men working on the island under his personal direction for many months, until to-day the island stands pre-eminently the best improved and most valuable of all the island, of anything near its size, in British Columbia.

As a game preserve, the island stands probably unequaled for its area in this territory, while a more ideal place for fishing, boating, bathing shooting and all similar enjoyment, could not be found. Those who have enjoyed the hospitality of Dr. and Lady Sybil Findlay on this beautiful island have been unanimous in expressing the opinion that the scenery and landscape views obtainable from the front of their residence, and from the high cliffs at the south end of the island, can scarcely be equalled, even in this land of beautiful scenery. A special feature of the island, the lack of which seems to be a serious drawback to most of the islands, is the splendid water supply of James. Dr. Findlay, since his ownership of the island, has built a large reservoir at an elevated position on the island, which is fed by springs, and from which the water is piped to all the buildings and gardens, and the supply is so ample that if necessary a large area of the island could be irrigated. Two or three hundred acres of the island have been cleared, or partly cleared, and a considerable acreage has been put under a very high state of cultivation.

Dr. Findlay brought out his professional gardener, Mr. Smith, from England, to superintend the cultivation of the fruits, and probably no estate in this part of British Columbia is under a more perfect or higher state of cultivation than the thirty odd acres of orchards, strawberries, vegetables and miscellaneous fruits, in which Dr. Findlay has taken special pride.

It is understood that Dr. Findlay has special business interests which require his personal attention for some time to come in South Africa, which is the only reason he has decided to sell this magnificent estate, to which everyone who has been there seems to have become attached. The transfer of the property includes all the real and personal property on the island, including a large quantity of thoroughbred live stock.

Mr. Wheatcroft will use the island for a residental and sporting estate, and continue the cultivation of all kinds of fruits on the island on an extensive scale.

The consideration of the sale has not been made public, but it is thought to be somewhere in the neighborhood of $75,000.

COACHES WRECKED.

Freight Train Collided With Passenger Which Was Passing Switch.

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—Two coaches of 'Frisco passenger train No. 4, from Texas, was wrecked by a collision with a freight train just inside the city limits last night. The freight ran through an open switch upon the main track just as the passenger was passing and went between the first and second coaches. A. Neil, of Salem, Mo., who was sitting in the rear of the first coach, had his hip crushed. Several were slightly injured.

The height is measured from the level of the lower low water at spring tides. This level corresponds with the datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are referred, as closely as can now be ascertained.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water.

The average valuation of the paper money printed daily by Uncle Sam totals at over $3,000,000.

HIGHLAND MARY

Several months ago we offered Two Million Five Hundred Thousand shares of Blue Bell at 10 cents per share. It was quickly over-subscribed, and thousands of dollars were returned to disappointed applicants. Soon after we placed Lucky Boys upon the market, and offered One Million Shares at 6 cents per share. Applications were received for three times the amount offered, and we were again compelled to disappoint many clients.

The fortunate purchasers of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys have already witnessed an advance in these shares of fifteen times the purchase price of Lucky Boys and ten times the purchase price of Blue Bell. These advances are insignificant, however, in comparison to the advances that are still to take place in these shares. We are in close touch with the development, and are advised by our engineers that there are now thousands of tons of rich ore in sight amounting to millions of dollars. We strongly advise every shareholder of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys to keep what they have. Within the next year or so ten times the present value will be reached.

Gold Mines Limited, OF Larder Lake AT 10 Cents Per Share

Why have the investing public so eagerly subscribed for the flotations recommended by Law & Co., Limited?

The answer is this: Law & Co., Limited, have established themselves with the investing public as to their Responsibility, Reliability and Trustworthiness. They have not abused the confidence placed in them by investors. They will not offer a single share to the public unless they have first made exhaustive and thorough examinations of the properties involved through their own engineers and assayers. The properties must be first-class mining properties—not prospects. The titles must be perfect and clear of indebtedness. They do not mislead the public by misleading statements. The public appreciate Truth, Frankness and Fairness.

Never in the history of mining has such an opportunity for making money been presented as is now offered in the Larder Lake gold district, and especially in the wonderful Highland Mary properties.

Put your money in The Highland Mary Gold Mines, Limited. One of the greatest opportunities that have ever been offered for investment in a gold mining company. The Larder Lake district will be the wonder of the world, and Highland Mary is in the heart of it.

Miners and prospectors from all parts of the world are flocking to Larder Lake. Mining men with millions at their disposal are sending their representatives and mining engineers into the field, and are rapidly snapping up everything that can be purchased.

The time for investors to get in on the rock bottom is NOW—THE PRESENT TIME.

The opportunity offered in Highland Mary will probably never occur again in this district. Investors should accept this opportunity and buy in one of the greatest mining companies that will be known in this new Eldorado at the present rock-bottom prices of 10 cents per share.

We have gone to great expense, and have used every method available to learn and know the exact situation in the Larder Lake district. We have sent a number of reliable mining men in different directions and to different locations. We have established our own assaying office on the ground at Larder Lake, putting in charge of it mining engineers of known ability and reputation. We have not taken over a single claim that has not shown actual merit; that is to say, with free, visible gold in quantities most remarkable. We are informed by our engineers that there has never been a gold district known that has shown the wonderful width of quartz veins containing free, visible gold as now actually exists in the Larder Lake district. We have quartz veins assaying gold from $200 to as high as $42,000 to the ton, that vary in width from 6 feet to 150 feet.

The Highland Mary properties consist of 1,200 acres, being 30 well-selected 40-acre gold claims, undoubtedly and unquestionably the choicest of the district at the present time.

Now, we want to make this comparison. In the gold fields of Nevada, where the gold camps have gained renowned reputation—in camps as well known as Tonopah, Goldfield, Wonder, Searchlight—and other camps where millions upon millions have been made from claims varying in size from 10 to 20 acres. Just think of it! Ten or twenty acres running into values as high as from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 each. Mining men we have in the Larder Lake district who are well acquainted with the Nevada camps claim that the Larder Lake district is so far ahead of the mining camps in Nevada that there is no comparison whatever. Even the Rand in Africa, it is believed, will not come up to the wonderful gold district of Larder Lake.

We have received in our office in the past week many samples taken from every claim owned by the Highland Mary Company. Out of these we have had a great number of assays made by our own assayer on the ground. These assays run all the way around $200—the lowest—to $20,000—the highest. Our assayers on the ground, of course, cannot obtain as high assays as in laboratories in Toronto, where we have obtained the highest assays, running from $27,000 to $42,000 to the ton. Therefore, it is safe for us to estimate that the assays made by our own engineers on the ground are considerably under what we would actually receive were the stamp mills that the Company will install on the property in actual operation, together with the cyaniting process, by the use of which every particle of gold produced will be saved.

Could every investor come to our office and see the wonderful quartz samples, with gold showing in every portion, they would need no further urging or any further argument to convince them what Larder Lake is and what it is bound to be.

Investors who do not take advantage of this wonderful opportunity will, in a year from to-day, see and realize the great opportunities that they had to invest their money with great profit. We are in a position to judge, and we feel that we are judging rightly when we say to these investors: "Put your money into Highland Mary now. Every hundred dollars that you invest at the present time will, in a year from to-day, bring you many times that amount." This may seem to be a broad assertion, but consider well the great amount of territory, and consider well the millions that are made from properties consisting of but 10 to 20 acres of territory that never showed as rich as Highland Mary properties do to-day. It will only take a few months to place this property on a very big dividend-paying basis. Here is a legitimate opportunity for investors to make a real profit of 100 per cent. on your money by and through an early advance to $1.00. The Highland Mary shares will be selling in the open market at $2.00 in the near future, and it will not be long before investors will look back and realize how really cheap Highland Mary stock was at 10 cents. Such a chance to realize enormous returns on your money could seldom be possible except through the medium of legitimate mining investments, and through and by the discovery of such wonderful gold districts as Larder Lake. Remember, these opportunities will only present themselves once in a lifetime. This is the accepted time—this is the golden opportunity. The conditions surrounding the Highland Mary GUARANTEE to investors not only big profits, but also absolute safety. We have a property aggregating 1,200 acres in these wonderful Larder Lake gold fields—the new Eldorado—every acre of which is as rich in gold as the Rand or the famous gold districts of Nevada where millions upon millions are being taken out. The Larder Lake gold district will be familiar to every schoolboy almost the world over within a year or two. The titles are clear—there are no encumbrances whatever—not a dollar of indebtedness. To us there is not one single element of uncertainty as to the outcome. Investors at the present price of shares—ten cents—will realize the most wonderful profits that have ever been known in any mining district in the world.

We feel so positive regarding this, as we have had every reason to make us believe so. Our own engineers, whom we know, and our own prospectors and miners, with years of experience, whom we have every confidence in, demonstrate to us these facts. We have no other method of demonstrating to the investing public than through our advertisements, which we endeavor to make honest and straightforward. We are investing our own money, and are not advising the investing public to do anything that we are not doing ourselves.

We want to state further and impress upon our clients and the investing public that those of you who join us in this proposition should understand that we are also in this proposition with you. We are backing our faith with our money, and we are asking you to join us in this proposition, which we find after thorough and exhaustive investigation to be an absolutely secure and safe investment, and one that will yield returns that will make unprecedented profits for all concerned. We have no fear whatever regarding our investment, and we wish to make it clear to you that WE cannot take a dollar of profit out of this proposition as offered to you in the Highland Mary Company unless you, yourselves, receive the same returns in proportion to your interests therein. We say to you we are offering you one of the fairest, squarest and most honorable propositions that could be presented.

We pride ourselves upon the enviable reputation and standing we have earned and established with the investing public throughout Canada and the United States as brokers and financial agents. We are endeavoring to further build up, instead of tearing down, this reputation, which could only have been established by legitimate business methods. We would not make the strong assertions as to the Highland Mary properties and investment therein, in these advertisements, were we not satisfied beyond any question as to the ultimate outcome of the investment which we herein advise.

It hardly seems necessary at this time, but we are glad that we are able to refer any investor to any bank, financial institution or commercial agencies in the City of Toronto or throughout Canada and the United States as to our standing and reliability.

We wish to state further that every recommendation or assertion made in any of our advertisements or letters of advice WILL BE STRICTLY CARRIED OUT, and that any investor may invest his money with the full assurance that his money will be placed for the purposes and in the manner indicated, and that LAW & COMPANY will fulfill their pledges in every way.

We wish to express our appreciation to the many investors who have shown their confidence in our recommendations, and we desire again to pledge loyalty to their interests, having no fear whatever as to the future, knowing full well that it will demonstrate that their confidence in us has not been misplaced.

In the Green Room

Next week opens at the Victoria Theatre with a star attraction, "The Squaw Man." The company is heralded as an excellent one, and a full house may therefore be expected.

In the other theatres in the city the past week has been one of large houses. There have been many visitors in the city, which has led to full houses.

The New Grand reports a record-breaking week at that attractive house. The manager of Pantages, likewise says his place has been crowded.

"The Squaw Man."

The engagement of William Faversham at the Victoria Theatre, Monday night, September 30th, in "The Squaw Man," may very properly be regarded as one of the dramatic events of the season. "The Squaw Man" is a novel play, interesting, humorous and thrilling. It deals with the adventures of an Englishman on the Western plains, and introduces a large number of characters. The play is lavishly mounted, and the scenic investiture is absolutely correct, thus giving to the play the required atmosphere. In the first act, which shows the English country home, one almost scents the heather, treads the close-cropped lawns, and revels in the snug healthiness of the place.

In strong contract are the scenes shown in the second act, where the transfer is made to the Western plains, to the water-tank, cattle-shipping station on the Union Pacific, known as Maverick, Wyoming, to which locality the hero has drifted in his efforts to save the husband of the woman he loves from the disgrace which is but his just due. This scene is a true picture of the wild frontier life with which the author has made himself familiar in his own more youthful days; and this he limns with a free, facile and thrilling accurate pen. The plot teems with an interest that holds one as in a spell, and the second and third acts particularly present crises and climaxes that are as strong as any that have been shown on the modern stage. It is the realistic characterization which gives to the play its chief charm.

There is no straining for effect. It is a simple, beautiful story, graphically told in a rational manner. The supporting company is made up of actors to the manner born with naturalness as their chief charm, and the "atmosphere" of a correct scenic environment adds in making this one of the most attractive of entertainments.

The New Grand.

All of Manager Jamieson's anticipations as to the business during fair week have been realized so far, the receipts for each day largely exceeding those of the corresponding days during fair week of last year, and with the big business which the splendid bill is sure to draw for the closing performances to-night, the total is likely to be the largest for any week yet. The acts which will be seen for the last time to-night are Fox and Foxies Circus; Arthur Don and Minnie May Thompson, rapid fire talking and singing act; Harry Botter & Co., comedy sketch, "A Matrimonial Blizzard"; Pope and Knight, two charming singing, dancing and change soubrettes; Geo. Kaine, German comedian; Ernest L. Shaw, in illustrated song; moving pictures illustrating the loss and rescue of two children in the Alps, and the overture "Les Sylphes," by Bachman, by the orchestra.

Next week's programme is guaranteed by Mr. Jamison to more than hold its own in the pleasing procession of good shows which it has been his good fortune to be able to provide for his patrons during the season. The head line number, a comedy sketch entitled, "The Marriage Fee," is reported from Seattle to be absolutely the best and funniest that has yet been booked over the circuit. It is presented by Harry First in the character of Jacob Weinstein, a matriage broker, who is ably supported by Miss Florence Hadley and Mr. Maurice Frank. The Great Ernests are three of the best acrobats in the business. They use a bounding table and triple horizontal bar outfit, and the act is essentially a comedy one. Sidney Forrester is an English singing comedian of rare vaudeville merit, and with an unusually pleasing voice. His coster songs, in imitation of the Great Chevalier, could not be better sung except by the original. The Maccagnis are European whirlwind and fancy dancers; Miss Cora Thomas is a good soubrette and dancer, who will sing amongst others her own latest composition and success "High Toned Society." Ernest L. Shaw will have a new illustrated song in "Snuggle Up Closer." The new moving pictures will illustrate scenes and incidents in a caribou hunt in the B. C. mountains, and Prof. Nagle's orchestra will play "Love in Idleness", by Allan McBeth.

WILLIAM FAVERSHAM

In "The Squaw Man," at Victoria Theatre Monday evening

Pantages Theatre.

The new house has been playing to splendid houses this week. The star feature of it has been the Morton-Jewel troupe of club jugglers. These five, all artists in their line, have never failed to draw rounds of applause from the audience at every appearance. La Petite Patti, a juvenile wonder in the vocal class, Clifford and Hall in dances and comedy sketches, Tommy La Rose's singing, the Sisters Excella in "The Girl in White," and Van Hoff, the dialect comedian, have all sustained their interest throughout the week.

Big Attraction Coming.

Manager Denham of the Victoria Theatre, takes great pleasure in announcing that arrangements have been completed with the Askin-Singer Company, whereby the music play "The Time, the Place, and the Girl," the greatest musical and dramatic success of the season, will be produced in the Victoria Theatre on Monday, October 7th. This is the same attraction that has been produced over 465 times at the La Salle Theatre, Chicago, holding several records. First the Chicago record of having "sold out" for more performances than any other attraction ever produced in Chicago. Second, the world's record, inasmuch as every seat for every performance the week preceding Christmas was sold out twenty days in advance, notwithstanding this particular week in theatrical circles is considered by far the poorest week in the entire season.

The company is headed by the well-known comedian John E. George, as "Happy Johnny Hicks," and assisted by such well-known artists as Eulalie Jensen, Elizabeth Goddall, Jessie Huston, Theodore T. Rook, C. M. Giffen, J. S. Kinslow, Wm. Fitzsimmons and Richmond Kent, and a chorus of fifty.

Success in Nanaimo.

From Nanaimo comes the news that Cupid in Posterland, presented there on Thursday and Friday evenings, under the direction of James W. Evans for the benefit of St. Paul's church, was a grand success. The director is well known here, having put on Cupid in Posterland last season in Victoria and the musical company at the Gorge park this season.

The company in Nanaimo, all local musicians of this place, were as follows:

Old King Cole, famous ruler of a famours kingdom, Ralph Johnson; A. Piker Franklin, reporter, A. E. Duchesnay; Foxy Grandpa, out for a good time, W. A. Letcher; Happy Hooligan, with troubles of his own, A. S. Tyrer; Laughing Jim, "I seen yo' ad in de paper," J. Manson; Buster Brown, a wise little boy, Ernest Whiteside; Pretending Percy, a good little boy, Herbert Bate; Policeman, one of the finest, H. N. Freeman; Jack, of King Cole's court, John Grant; Boy Blue, of King Cole's court, H. N. Chiswell; Miss Muffet, of King Cole's court, Kitty Johnston; Bo Peep, of King Cole's court, Mable Snook; Jill, of King Cole's court, Ursula Dobeson; Lady Bountiful, a specialist in charity, Agnes Glaholm; Mrs. Katzenjammer, a woman of character, Mrs. Fred G. Peto; Mary Jane, Buster's confederate, Bertha Cavalsky; Fairy, Ella Cavalsky; Countess Also, Elizabeth Dobeson; Cupid, Jean Drysdale.

WITH WOMEN ITS LOOKS FIRST.

The average woman considers her looks first—her health afterwards. That's why we hear of so many cases of broken health and nervous prostration.

She wears furs and heavy garments on a cold afternoon; in the evening with the thinest kind of gown she attends the theatre or party.

These foolish irregularities in dress reap their own reward in suffering. It is only when colds that lead to pneumonia result, that she gets frightened and seeks a remedy that restores health. Let her take Ferrozone.

It soon gives vigor to the body, quickly brings color to the cheeks, rests the nerves and strengthens.

Ferrozone sharpens appetite, invigorates digestion, adds weight, it gives the muscle tone and elasticity that makes the ailing one feel strong and vigorous.

If you want strength, gool color, high spirits and energy—use Ferrozone, it's the most nourishing tonic made; sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

THE BAKERIES, "LIMITED"

VICTORIA has long needed a thoroughly up-to-date Steam Bakery. A Company has been formed to acquire the bread businesses of M. R. Smith & Co., and the Capital City Bakery.

MOST undertakings require a large sum of money to operate same, but this is one that will only require a comparatively small amoust. The authorized capital of the Company is $25,000, but of this amount only $20,000 is being placed on the market. The vendors, for their stock in trade, get $2,500 in cash and $4,000 stock in the Company now being formed, and the balance of the $16,000 has been offered to the citizens of Victoria.

OF this amount, between $11,000 and $12,000 has been subscribed, so that those who want to own some stock in "The Bakeries, Limited," will have to apply right away, or same will have all been disposed of. A lot has been secured on the railway track close to Russell Street Station (on William Street), tenders will soon be called for, and a thoroughly up to date plant with steam ovens, capable of making 5,000 loaves of bread daily, will be installed. The building is being erected on the line of railway, so as to avoid the expense of carting flour, wood, coal, etc.

WITH the amalgamation of these two old established businesses and the putting in of a large steam bread making plant, a large saving will be effected in the labor bill, also in having only one set of wagons covering the ground. A business of nearly 3,000 loaves of bread daily will be taken over from these two concerns. This is an extremely valuable asset, and the new Company will start business under very favorable auspices.

One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;
Mix, and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

LADY GAY.

MONTHS OF AGONY.

A Severe Case of Rheumatism Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"For many weary months I suffered untold agony. I could not walk. I could scarcely raise myself to a sitting posture. I was under medical care, but in vain. Finally I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they have restored me to my former healthy condition."

This strong statement was made to a reporter by Mr. Charles S. Keddey, formerly of Kingston, N. S., but now living at Port Maitland. Mr. Keddey is a carpenter by trade, and is now able to work every day. He adds: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they cured me after other medicine failed. While I was living at Kingston, N. S., I was seized with rheumatism in its most violent form. I was compelled to take to my bed and for months was an invalid. I was so weak that it was difficult for me to raise myself to a sitting posture. It is impossible to tell how much I suffered day and night, week in and week out. The pains were like piercing swords. I had medical attendance, but it failed. Then I tried medicines advertised to cure rheumatism, but with the same result—money wasted. One day when hope had almost gone a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I told him my experience with other medicines, but he assured me that these pills would cure rheumatism, so I sent for a supply. After using a few boxes I was able to leave my bed, and from that on my restoration to health was rapid. I am now as well as ever I was, and have not had the slightest touch of rheumatism since. The change they have wrought in my case is simply miraulous, and I can strongly recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one suffering from any form of rheumatism."

Rheumatism is rooted in the blood. Rubbing the aching limbs with liniments and outward remedies cannot possibly cure it. You must get the rheumatism acid out of the blood and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only sure medicine to do this, because they actually make new blood. That is why these pills cure anaemia, headaches and backaches, neuralgia, indigestion and the secret ailments that make miserable the lives of so many women and growing girls. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The nut trees in the world could, it is calculated, provide food all the year round for the population of the globe. Brazil nuts grow in such profusion that thousands of tons of them are wasted every year.

A COMPARISON.

The united States of America follow cur example of publishing annually the result of the shooting of their vessels of war; and the order of merit of its fleets and ships. As in our own case, the actual worth of the figures given is only relative, and no indications of how they are arrived at is published. Thus, while the officers and men of their navy can see how their ships stand in relation to each other, and are stimulated to put forth their best efforts to get a good place on the list, yet the essential secrets of the State are not disclosed. The Pacific second squadron, under Admiral Swinburne, takes pride of place, and is as much as 20 per cent. ahead of the next best fleet on the list; although there is not a single battleship in this squadron, which consists of the Boston, Chicago, Charlestown, Yorktown, Princeton, Preble, and Paul Jones. This fleet comes out with 74.866 points, while the second squadron of the Atlantic fleet, which consists of the Kearsarge, Kentucky, Alabama, Indiana, Iowa, and Ohio, secured 62.456 points. The best battleship of the American navy was the Illinois, which was awarded 75.782 points; while the best cruiser, the Boston, received 79.782 points. The gunboat trophy was won by the Princeton, with 73.395 points, while the Hull won the gunnery prize for torpedo craft with 76.445 points. In the American navy the accuracy of torpedo aim is rewarded in a similar way to that of gunnery accuracy, and this is a feature of their competitions we might very well copy. This year the Preble won the torpedo contest (one of the crack second quuadron, Pacific fleet.) The evenness of the shooting of the ships forming this latter fleet was remarkable, each ship being what is known as a "star" ship — i.e., ships which obtain at least 85 per cent. of the final merit of the trophy winners of their respective classes of battleships, cruisers, etc. The shooting of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, as a whole, was also very even; the Atlantic fleet securing 59.346 points, while the Pacific fleet, although it contained the best shooting squadron, secured only the slightly inferior figures of 59.241 points. The basis of calculation not being known, it is impossible to compare the American fleets with our own, but the above figures show that the spirit of gunnery emulation is every whit as keen in the American navy as in the British, and that the officers and men of our own navy have rivals treading close upon their heels; and no abatement in zeal and energy can be allowed by our officers commanding. The United States got to work first in scientific naval shooting, and this year's records show that they mean to hold their own among the world's fleets. Last year the general average of final merit was 64 per cent. in the ships of their navy; this year it is 71 per cent.—London Globe.

THIS MORNING WITH THE C. E.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED IN THE CONVENTION

Officers Elected by the Provincial Union at To-Day's Session of the Society.

This morning's session of the Christian Endeavor convention was in no way inferior to those that have gone before it. There was again a splendid attendance of delegates, and the interest increased as the hours went by.

After devotional exercises Rev. S. J. Thompson gave a talk on "Methods in Bible Study." The Christian Endeavorer ought to have method in the study of the Bible because of its great importance. The greatest themes of life were found in the Bible, God, man, time, eternity. The great end of Bible study was found in the development of the moral and spiritual life. The purpose of Bible study should be that one should know God, and to so know God that they should have eternal life. In Bible study they must bear in mind the purpose of the book, the time in which it was written, the place of the book and the people who were described and whose history they found. The men of the Bible should be studied, always remembering that they all prepare for, or follow Christ. All Bible study led to the supreme man, Christ. The Christian Endeavorer should study the Bible reverently, constantly, systematically. He should clearly recognize the gradual revelation of truth. The Bible was always up-to-date and therefore would abide for ever.

"Some Essential Features of a Well Organized Society" was discussed by Samuel Clark of Vancouver. The paper was a thoughtful and earnest one, and held the close attention of the convention. He said a well organized society was a union of units. The first essential therefore that there should be unity, first of members, second of its departments, third of purpose. In order that they might have this unity they must be thorough, active, united, and strong for a purpose, with one aim in view, aggressive and prayerful, and therefore powerful. This all meant training. There could be no real aggressive work unless they were trained for service. There were three points in reaching out for service, width of vision, warmth of heart, and wisdom of head. The well organized society must be a unit for Christ and the church, it should remember to train as well as teach; it will look after the quiet hour and be a praying society; also a paying society, and should be observant. "Watch and pray" should be the motto.

D. E. Buzza, president of the Vancouver Local Union, an energetic and enthusiastic Endeavorer, gave a helpful address on "What the Local Union of Christian Endeavor Can Do." The local union to be a help to the society must be progressive. It should be the organization through which the best C. E. methods can be spread. It should seek to promote interdenominational and Christian fellowship, the unity and co-operation in the various branches of C. E. work. The fundamental principle of C. E. work was loyalty to the church. No organization has done more to stir within our young people a sense of duty of loyalty to the church. No organization has such a grand opportunity of widening the interdenominational fellowship of binding together in Christian love and unity societies of every denomination and making such a greater power for good. The union should unite in a social way the societies of the union.

The work of the Provincial Union was introduced by Dr. F. L. Horsfall, of Seattle. Before commencing his address, Dr. Horsfall spoke in eulogistic terms of the press of Victoria. He said that the excellent detailed reports which had been published by the papers were second to none on other cities where a convention had been held; he found the press so generous in its treatment of the Christian Endeavor movement.

The work of the provincial union was arduous in the extreme. There should be a live staff of officers, men who were not mere figureheads, but men in real earnest and willing to spend some time in the work set before them. The president should be a man in every sense of the word. The secretary needed the sympathy and co-operation of every officer of the individual societies. A man was failing in the common courtesy of life who neglected to reply to communications sent him by the officers of his society. It was the need of the day that Endeavorers should be ready to "do" and not ask the reason why they should do as they were asked.

E. VAN DE MAATEN

The relation of the provincial union to the international society was discussed in a fervent spirit. The speaker regretted that this great denomination should have seen fit to institute young people's societies in their own denominations and not keep in complete touch with the interdenominational idea of the Christian Endeavor movement. All differences fade away before the presence and life of the one Lord and Saviour of all. Their allegiance to the provincial society should be as strong as their allegiance to the individual society. The officers of the union should plan great things. Let there be some definite work set before the union and then having made the plan, stick to it to the very end. Let the individual societies support the provincial union in their work. Stand by the leaders, keep pace with them and let all go on together.

A conference on methods of Christian Endeavor work was conducted by C. E. Van de Maaten. The first question discussed was "How to Have Good Prayer Meetings." The necessity was emphasized of having some bright ideas in prayer meetings, something more than the usual plan of a few hymns and prayers and a desultory discussion on some assigned topic. In turn the various committees of the individual society were brought in review, and a very interesting conversation was held on each topic. Many took part in the discussions and the interest was very great.

The report of the resolutions committee was read by L. L. Muttitte.

The following resolutions were passed:

"That this convention desires to place on record its extreme pleasure at the presence with us of Rev. J. A. Doyle, of Regina; Dr. F. L. Horsfall, of Seattle, and Mr. C. E. Van de Maaten, of Louisville, Kentucky. The addresses of each of these leaders of young people's work have been timely, intensely interesting, and we recognize our obligation to them for their assistance in making this convention a success."

"That this convention expresses its appreciation of the untiring efforts of Rev. E. Le Roy Dakin, the president of the provincial union, and his associates to make this occasion a success and a blessing. We realize that if it had not have been for his zeal and enthusiasm and self sacrificing effort the provincial union would not have had existence. We recognize his ability as a presiding officer in our meetings, and his brotherly spirit in our associations with him."

"Whereas the purpose of the Saskatchewan and Manitoba Provincial C. E. Union to secure the services for a part of the year at least of a union organizer or field secretary, has been brought to our attention, coupled with the request that the B. C. union cooperate with these unions in securing the services of a capable man who would give his time to the work in the united field,

"Therefore be it resolved that a committee be appointed consisting of the president and D. E. Buzza, who will inquire into the whole matter, with particular reference to the desirability of such an undertaking, the possible expense involved and possible income, and report to an early meeting of the executive."

"Whereas the united societies of Christian Endeavor is desirous of building an international headquarters building in the city of Boston, which would meet the ever-increasing needs of the publication, missionary and other departments of the organization; whereas the building of such a building would release a large amount of money which could be used for the carrying on of the world-wide Christian Endeavor campaign; and

"Whereas an important part of this missionary campaign is on behalf of India and other sections of the British Empire;

"Therefore be it resolved that this B. C. Provincial Union undertake the raising of our share, which we esteem to be about $1 per member, as soon as possible, but at least within the next four years, on behalf of this interdenominational headquarters building."

"Whereas this province is in need of some legislation which will enable the people to express their will regarding the licensed liquor traffic;

"Whereas there is a need for the unifying of all the organizations in symathy with such a movement;

"Whereas the undertaking of such a movement would provide an opportunity for the Christian citizenship department of the Christian Endeavor Provincial Union to do some practical work;

"Therefore resolved that this convention recommend the organization, on the part of the provincial executive, of a campaign throughout the province on behalf of a local option law."

"In view of the increasing lawlessness on this continent, and which has now reached that point in the great American republic, that the supreme issue of the day has become 'the enforcement of the law,' and in view of the fact that conditions in the United States have necessarily a very considerable influence upon Canada, and very especially on British Columbia;

"Be it resolved that this convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of British Columbia here, in Victoria assembled, and representing the Y. P. of the Baptist, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian and Reformed Episcopal denominations, views with alarm the attitude of our provincial government to the federal law of the Dominion of Canada in regard to the Lord's Day Observance Act, and calls upon the administration to take such action as shall bring the Lord's Day Observance Act into force in British Columbia, as it is now in force in almost every other province of the Dominion, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the secretary to the prime minister, attorney-general and every other member of the cabinet of British Columbia."

"Whereas this provincial union has no constitution to govern its future work;

"Resolved that this convention request the provincial executive committee be formulate a constitution for the use of the provincial union until the next provincial convention shall be held."

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Hon. president, Rev. E. LeRoy Dakin, Victoria; president, Rev. W. H., Barraclough, B. A., Vancouver; 1st vice-president, D. E. Gugga, Vancouver; 2nd vice-president, Rev. H. A. Carson, Victoria; secretary-treasurer, A. E. Etherington, New Westminster; councillors, Mr. Hogg, Vancouver; Mrs. Warwick, Victoria; W. Skinner, Vernon; Miss Knight, Chilliwack, and H. W. Davies, Victoria.

—Householders and license-holders are required to make declarations at the city clark's office, city hall, before the end of October in order to obtain their votes in the forthcoming elections. Last year a number of householders failed to make the necessary declarations under the impression that registration on the last year's voters' list entitled them to vote.

NEW WHARVES FOR THE INNER HARBOR

C. W. Brown Has Decided to Provide Additional Accommodation For the Increasing Shipping of This Port

By April next the inner harbor will have its docking facilities very materially increased. Arrangements are now being made by which the whole of the waterfront from the Alaska Steamship Company's new wharf to the Dominion government's wharf will be prepared for the accommodation of steamers.

The water front between the two points mentioned was acquired some time ago by C. W. Brown, of this city. For a time he had it on the market, but recently he came to the conclusion that a good opportunity presented itself for the investment in wharves which would be independent of any of the shipping companies and would be open to all comers on the same terms.

He therefore has decided to withdraw the property from sale, and is now perfecting the plans for the erection of the new wharves. These will be commenced within a few weeks and pushed to completion so as to be ready for trade early next spring.

The water front owned by Mr. Brown is about 400 feet, and all will be utilized by him in his new undertaking. The providing of additional accommodation for the shippers is regarded as necessary. At the present time many steamers have to berth at the outer wharf which would prefer to come close into the business places if the facilities existed for them to do so.

The wharves will be equipped in the very best of shape. Mr. Brown expects to spend about $35,000 or $40,000 in the work and will give local firms and the shipping companies every facility for the handling of freight and the accommodation of passengers.

HAYES DID NOT LIKE THE CAMERA

Magistrate Jay had a big docket of business before him this morning, both the city and provincial police furnishing cases for trial. Edward Johnson, a colored stable attendant, was charged with committing an assault upon John Street, an employee in the same stable, at the exhibition grounds last evening. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, with the option of spending three months in jail.

Roy Baldwin, a stable boy, was charged with entering one of the booths with intent to commit theft. He was fined $10 and $10 costs, or in default a month in prison.

Roy Keller, a vagrant, who was rounded up by the city police yesterday, failed to answer a charge of vagrancy, and his bail of $50 was estreated.

John Hayes, charged with stealing $6 from F. A. Williams, came up on remand from yesterday. He elected to be tried by jury and pleaded not guilty. J. A. Aikman appeared for the accused and asked the magistrate to order the return of $165 which was taken from the accused by the police when he was incarcerated. Chief of Police Langley and Mr. Aikman had a wordy warfare on this point, and the magistrate reserved his ruling until Tuesday. Bail of $1,000, in two sureties of $500, was allowed, but it is unlikely that the accused will be able to take advantage of it.

Considerable amusement was caused at the city lock-up this afternoon when an attempt was made to photograph Hayes. Yesterday all attempts to secure a likeness of him proved unavailing through his vigilance, but to-day he was taken by a bioscope camera while being given a short walk in the open air, presumably for the benefit of his health. As soon as Hayes caught sight of the camera he ducked and attempted to cover his face, quite unconscious of the fact that his movements for the previous few minutes had been safely imprinted upon the film.

JAPANESE IN MILLS.

Albert Maclaren Says They Have Always Given Satisfaction.

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Albert Maclaren, the big mill owner at Buckingham, near here, who has had considerable experience with Japanese in British Columbia, is of the opinion that the white residents of the western provinces are making a grave mistake in attempting to drive the Japanese and Hindus out, or prevent them from landing. The James Maclaren Lumber Company, which has a mill at Vancouver, has employed many Japanese in the past two years and they have given the best of satisfaction. "British Columbia needs Japanese to develop its wonderful resources," said Mr. Maclaren, "white men are preferable, certainly, but there are not enough whites in British Columbia to keep up with the pace. We have many Japanese in our mills out there, although white employees are in the majority. The Japanese never failed to do their work. There is no danger of the Japanese preventing white men from getting employment. There is undoubtedly plenty of work in British Columbia for all hands and Canada needs Japanese."

NOBLEMEN TOUR CANADA.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 28.—Count Franz Hoyes, of Hungary, and Count Felix Hoyes, of Germany, are in the city. The visitors have come to western Canada on pleasure, and will go through Banff, from which point they will leave on an exploration tour to the north. Both of the gentlemen are landholders in their native country, and both expressed the wish to see farms in the west so that they might be able to compare agriculture as it is practiced in Europe and America. They will be in Canada for several months. Count Franz will go south to the western states, and from there return to Europe. Count Felix will go on to Japan and will see something of the Far East.

FATAL FALL.

Regina, Sept. 28.—John McPherson, who yesterday fell from the tower of the city hall, died last night. McPherson and a companion were burnishing the dome of the tower when the former lost his hold, falling sixty feet. He was unmarried and arrived in the city recently. He has a sister here.

—W. J. Mathers, of New Westminster, is spending a few days in the city.

HUNDRED CHINESE PERISHED IN FIRE

Conflagration at Wuchow Caused Property Loss Estimated at One Million Dollars

Hongkong, Sept. 27.—About one hundred lives were lost in the fire at Wuchow, while property valued at a quarter of a million dollars was destroyed.

The fire was put out after the kerosene depot had exploded.

Looting is now going on in Wuchow, but all the foreigners there are safe.

Incendiaries are believed to have started the fire.

FORESTERS' CHIEF RANGER.

Successor to Oronhyatekha Will Reach Here on Sunday Evening.

Elliott G. Stevenson, supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, successor to the late chief, Dr. Oronhyatekha, will arrive in this city by Sunday evening's boat from Vancouver. He comes, accompanied by a supreme court party, from Toronto to attend the sessions of the high court of B. C., which will be held in the K. of P. hall on Monday and Tuesday.

The new leader is a man of affairs. He was the supreme councillor to Dr. Oronhyatekha, and in the recent insurance inquiry loomed up as the best posted man in the order, and the watchful advocate of sound methods. His clear-cut views as to what constituted sound fraternal insurance and safe investment for accumulated funds secure to him the confidence of the tens of thousands of Independent Foresters throughout the world. His short stay in the city will not permit of a public meeting, but all I. O. F. members are invited by Court Cariboo to meet with the high court and supreme court party at A. O. U. W. hall on Monday evening. The court work will be conducted by a "guard of honor" from the lately organized ladies' court, Far West, a team of about 30 candidates will be initiated, addresses will be delivered by Mr. Stevenson and other noted visitors, and an opportunity offered for all present to become acquainted with the supreme chief and party.

On Tuesday afternoon the visitors will be the guests of Court Cariboo in a tally-ho drive, after which the supreme court party will take the evening boat to the Sound.

The sessions of the high court promise to be very interesting for the delegates, as some radical changes in the by-laws are proposed, and a large representation from the various courts of the province is expected to be in attendance. The Dominion hotel has been appointed as headquarters, and friends may find the visitors there outside of court sessions.

—At the roller rink, Fort street, the management has decided to put on every Wednesday and Saturday, extra sessions for the convenience of those whose business detains them to a late hour. The session on Wednesday being held from 5 until 9 p. m. and Saturday from 5 till 7 p. m. and also from 10 p. m. to 12 o'clock.

—Hon. W. J. Bowser, attorney-general, went over to the mainland this morning to prepare for the session of the assize court, which opens next week. There is quite a large list of cases docketed, and the attorney-general will probably be engaged for a couple of weeks. The docket embraces the cases of the Vancouver rioters, and there is one murder case on the list.

WEST COAST LIFEBOATS.

Steamer Maude sailed from the marine and fisheries wharf yesterday for the West Coast of Vancouver Island, towing three lifeboats, which had arrived here from Vancouver and which will be installed at Banfield, Clo-oose and Ucuelet respectively. The Maude further took on board lumber and supplies for the trail builders on the West Coast, while Captain D. McDougall and five riggers left for Pachena Point, where they will raise the wireless mast at that point.

The stations for the accommodation of the lifeboats which have been taken to the West Coast are already installed, and before winter sets in the crews will have been selected, and all will be in readiness to assist in case of shipwreck. It is understood that the steamer Maude, which is in the command of Captain Anderson, will remain under charter to the marine and fisheries department until the winter sets in.

ATLANTIC RATES REDUCED.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—There is another move in the rate war which has been precipitated by the recent action of the Canadian lines in reducing their rates for express matter between the St. Lawrence and Liverpool. Yesterday the local agents of the Mercantile Marine, which comprises the American, White Star, Atlantic Transport, Red Star and Dominion lines, were notified from New York of a cut in the rates of eastbound and westbound travel. The rates, for instance, are $50 for a minimum saloon on the Majestic and Teutonic, and $52.50 for the Adriatic; the second-class reductions to be of a corresponding nature.

There is considerable conjecture here as to what will happen when the passenger managers of the Canadian lines get together to-day to draw up a plan of campaign to meet new requirements. Empress boats and turbiners now charge $55 for minimum saloon passage, and if they want to retain their trade they will have to make further reductions.

MARINE NOTES.

The North German Lloyd, the Cunard, the Hamburg-American and the White Star lines have advised their local agent, E. E. Blackwood, that, taking effect from November 1st, and continuing until March 31st, the west-bound first-class cabin rates will be greatly reduced. In some cases these rates will be as low as $50 on certain steamers. The Cunard Steamship Company has decided not to reduce its rates in any class, either west-bound or east-bound, on the new vessel Lusitania.

Convoyed by the steamer Salvor, of the B. C. Salvage Company, the C. P. R. steamer Otter left Ladysmith at noon to-day on her way to this port. On Thursday night the Otter ran on Danger Reef in a heavy fog, and is leaking badly. She is coming to this port under her own steam, as it is possible to keep her front filling by means of the pumps. She will be repaired at the ways of the B. C. Marine Railways Company.

The steamer Governor, the new vessel of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, will leave San Francisco to-day on her way to this port and Seattle. She will take the place of the steamer President on the Puget Sound-San Francisco route, while the latter vessel will go on the Nome run, sailing from Seattle on October 1st.

Carrying a large quantity of freight, both the C. P. R. steamers Charmer and the R. P. Rithet will sail from Victoria direct to New Westminster on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The cargo will consist mainly of exhibits from the Victoria exhibition, which are being taken over to the Royal City for the fair to be held there.

Tug William Jolliffe, of the B. C. Salvage Company, arrived at the marine and fisheries wharf this morning. She is under charter to the marine and fisheries department at present, and will leave for the West Coast for the purpose of establishing buoys this evening.

The steamer Transit, of the B. C. Coast Steamship Co., is reported from Ketchikan, which port she left on Thursday bound for Unalaska. She will bring a cargo of ore from the Portland Canal to the Island smelters when downward bound.

The Cunard Steamship Company has advised its local agent, E. E. Blackwood, that the liner Saxonia arrived in Boston from Liverpool to-day with a total of 2,226 passengers bound for United States and Canadian points.

British sailing ship Holt Hill is now engaged in discharging cargo at Seattle. Early next week she will move to Tacoma, where she will finish taking on a grain cargo for the British Isles.

Steamer Princess Beatrice is expected in port to-morrow morning from the Queen Charlotte Islands and Northern B. C. ports. She has 2,500 cases of salmon for discharge at the outer wharf.

The Western Fuel Co., of Nanaimo, has chartered the steamer Tordenskjold to carry coal from Vancouver Island to San Francisco. The Norwegian vessel is well known on this Coast.

With 300 Japanese on board for this port the steamer Tango Maru, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line, is scheduled to arrive at this port on Tuesday.

Steamer Titan, of the Holt line, is due here on Friday next. She has 150 Japanese and about 1,000 tons of general merchandise for this port.

Bound for San Francisco, the steamer City of Puebla, of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co., sailed from the outer wharf last night.

Steamer Gymeric, of the Weir line, is expected here from San Francisco to go into dry dock at Esquimalt to be overhauled.

Steamer Empress of Britain from Montreal landed her passengers at Liverpool on Wednesday morning.

Steamer Kumeric, of the Weir line, arrived at Yokohama on Thursday from Puget Sound.

JUDGES EXPRESS THEIR OPINION

They Speak Freely Concerning the Horses Shown, Offering Suggestions For the Future--Additional Prize List

Yesterday was America's day, and large numbers of visitors from the State of Washington were present. An excursion from Bellingham brought over five hundred and a good number came on the Seattle boats. Besides these there were visitors from all outside points and on account of the schools being closed a number of children were there right early in the morning, remaining all day. Wagner's First Regiment band from Seattle played during the afternoon, but unfortunately they had to return, and therefore could not play in the evening.

In order to get an authentic criticism of the horses at the show, interviews were sought with the judges, W. F. Kidd and R. H. Taber. The former gentleman who hails from Simcoe, Ont., judged the light horses, and therefore anything he says on that subject may be considered as authoritative. In his own words the criticism ran as follows:

"There were four hackney stallions entered, and of these the winner of the first prize, one owned by Mr. Mercer, is a magnificent mover, his action is great and he is also very speedy for a hackney.

"The second prize was awarded to a black of wonderful substance, belonging to Mr. Hadwen, with lots of ambition, but with action not quite so good as the first.

"The third is probably as fine a type of hackney as any in the class. He had been a long time in the cars and like a good many others, got his docks a little hurt. This might have had something to do with the place he got.

"The unplaced stallion is a hackney of great substance and beautiful color, but did not show as much action as the others.

"In carriage teams Pemberton's chestnuts obtained the first prize. They are thoroughly broken, of good action, perfect manners, and were justly entitled to win a first prize.

"The second, Mitchell's grey and chestnut, are a nice type of carriage team, but could hardly expect to win higher than second, seeing that they had only been in harness a few weeks.

"In saddle horses Pemberton's beautiful little black mare showed splendid breeding, with head, neck and shoulders almost perfection for the class in which she was exhibited.

"Mitchell's second did not show enough breeding, but in a combination ride and drive would be hard to beat.

"The small pony that won the first prize is a beautiful little piebald, the admiration of the whole crowd, and might be sent to any exhibition in the country and expect to be placed. The second pony was good but much larger and in classes of this kind the smaller animal is the more valuable."

Judge Kidd was heard to remark that it would have been better to have driving horses in two classes, as it is most unsatisfactory to compare carriage and road horses. The fair as a whole, he thought, was good (this with emphasis) and in looking at the parade he said one would never think it was taking place in as new a country as this. All the arrangements of the show were excellent and the officers had done everything in their power to make the work of the judges as easy and pleasant as possible.

R. H. Taber, the judge of the heavy horses, made a few criticisms of the horses he judged, and it must be remembered he was speaking from a strictly critical standpoint. He said:

"There were eight good horses entered in the aged stallion class. The first winner, Dean Swift, is a good, big draught horses, of good quality, a good mover, and with lots of character.

"Royal Sceptre came second, from Chilliwack. He is a good thick horse, of fair quality and a fair mover.

"Premier Prince, the third in the class, was not big enough to get a higher place. Besides being rather small he was not brought in the best bloom.

"The fourth place was given to Earl Seaham, a horse of good quality. There were also a number of very good horses that did not get prizes.

"In the three-year-olds, Mercer's won out. This is a horse of good quality, but somewhat out of bloom on account of his trip. Still, it is a real good colt.

"Mercer also won the first in two-year-olds, a horse of good quality, fresh in limb, and with plenty of the right kind of bone and feather. He was, however, a little light in the middle, partly on account of his trip. This will fill up.

"Pemberton's yearling won out in his class. A colt of good quality, a good mover, but rather too much furnished for a yearling.

"Pemberton also took first in brood mares, with Nellie Garrick. She is a mare of excellent quality, a grand mover, but rather on the fine side for a draught mare.

"Paterson's, that won the first in the three-year class is a right good, thick filly with lots of promise, a good mover and lots of the right kind of bone.

"The two-year-old filly that took first is also a good thick filly of fair quality. Mercer's that took second and third were of good quality, but rather out of bloom from their long trip.

"The race for champion was very close, Pemberton's stallion beating Mercer's two-year-old, and Nellie Garrick only just bettering Paterson's three-year-old.

"Pemberton's driving team is an excellent one, and would look well at any show in the country."

Asked for any suggestions or criticisms, Mr. Taber said that in the prize list he would suggest cutting out the geldings from the pure bred classes. When a horse is altered he loses his identity in the stud book, and should not be shown against those entered. The agricultural horses were very strong and the classes well filled with excellent animals. This class was better than at any show he had attended so far this summer, excelling even Winnipeg, Brandon and Regina.

Another suggestion ne made was that harness horses should be shown in front of the grand stand. This makes a nice display and does not in any way interfere with the races. The arrangements were good except that the horses were slow in coming out. This was a waste of time and he would like to suggest that if the horses were not ready when called they should be cut out of the judging, just as they would from racing. He would further suggest the judging of unregistered stock first, leaving the pure bred for the second day, when more farmers would be in attendance. These people like to see the placing and learn a good deal from it.

Mr. Taber said he had received every courtesy from the officials and everybody else. The show as a whole was a fine one, and Victorians should be proud of it and support it to the best of their ability.

GOOD BECAUSE IT DOES GOOD.

The common ailments, while few, are liable to arise at any time. The best horses, and those receiving the least care, are alike liable to the ordinary troubles as spavins, ringbone, splint, curb lameness, cuts and bruises.

It is well for horseowners, that these diseases all yield to the same treatment, and can all be cured completely with the same remedy. This dependable remedy—which is very inexpensive—is Kendall's Spavin Cure. Even the most stubborn cases, which veterinaries have failed to relieve, yield to Kendall's Spavin Cure.

In the thirty years in which this reliable remedy has been used by farmers, stockmen, liverymen, and in private and racing stables, it has given complete satisfaction.

Certainly those who own horses are not consulting their own best interests, if they do not keep a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the barn.

Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., makers of this famous preparation, publish a book entitled "A Treatise on the Horse and His Diseases," which is invaluable to those who want to keep their horses well and save veterinaries' bills. A copy may be obtained at most dealers or will be sent free by addressing the above company at Enosburg Falls, Vermont, U. S. A.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

MARKS OF A MAN FOR THE TIMES.

The International Sunday-school Lesson for September 29th is a Quarterly Review. Ps. 90.

By William T. Ellis.

Opportuneness and possibilities mark this lesson. Like much of the present-day discussion of the world's need, it is concerned with the theme of a man for the hour. The greatest glory of these recent epochal days in the history of the western world is the emergence of men who under old conditions have been submerged. The hope of thoughtful patriots in these latter days is that the new stress that is being laid on individual righteousness will effect an increased stability of personal character among the people of the land generally. For it is more man that we need. We have been driven sharply back upon the old, old truth that only personality is the salvation for the times; that all of the world's needs are imbodied in its need for manhood.

The striking events in public life, with all their homiletic character, and all their exhortation to return to the first principles of morality and religion, will yet have failed to produce their ultimate results if out of them have not come more men of increased might, ready to take up the burdens of the public weal. Undoubtedly there is apparent throughout the length and breadth of the continent a new sense of individual sovereignty. Men are realizing their responsibility as citizens as never before. They are talking less about the privileges of patriotism and more about its duties. The plain man in the commonplace sphere is lifting up his head with a new consciousness that he has a right to challenge the acts and deeds of the mightiest public servant. Surely these are good times for manhood. While the statisticians write the staggering figures of the new world's wealth, they are overlooking the greatest asset of all, namely the sheer manhood which, in markedly increasing degree, is the sovereign characteristic of the new world.

A Man Looming Large.

What has this to do with the present Sunday-school lesson which is indicated as a review of the forty years' history of the life of Israel from the Exodus to the death of Moses? Simply that those forty years spell one grand word of three letters—man. Whoever peers into those dim, dull, gray years finds, looming mountain high above the ruck of tangled commonplaceness—above the din of the jangling voices of a many-minded people, the clear, strong figure of which the world has said, "There was a man." The greatest contribution of those forty years was just Moses. One man's greatness redeemed the epoch from littleness. As he led those supine slaves out into a new national identity, and gave to the formless mob a place forever brilliant among the nations of the world, so he has contributed to the imperishable annals of history a portrait of a great man, one of the world's very greatest.

Moses died without ever reaching the land of promise. He labored and others entered into his rest. But in all Canaan there was no personality, until a Greater than Moses came, equal to that of the man learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and equipped with the greater wisdom that comes from communion with Jehovah, who had shaped Israel's destiny and given her her law. Among the few great figures who adorn the rotunda of the magnificent library of congress at Washington may be seen the figure of Moses, calm and majestic, seeming, even in the cold bronze, as one who walked apart from the common order of men. No better review of this quarter's Sunday-school studies can be made than a consideration of the qualities which marked the greatness of Moses.

A Man Who Dared.

All the world's sages have declared that courage ranks among the first of human virtues. Moses was from first to last a man of appalling audacity. He dared attempt the highest possible destiny for himself. That takes courage. Most people are content to drift along into any sort of life or character that happens to come to them with the years. Only the rare man, so rare as to be called great, resolutely achieves for himself the character which he, in his moments of clearest perception, has deemed worth while. The courage that wins character must combat the inbred littleness of human nature every day of life. Its enemies are both without and within. Environment tends to compress life. Moses rose above his environment. He was a great man when, on the lonely mountain side, he played the part of a shepherd; he was a great man when, in majestic solitariness, he led Israel through its forty years of wandering.

One shrinks from saying—lest it seem to be merely a conventionally pious remark—that the secret of Moses courage was his religion. But we have abundant record that naturally he was a timid man. If left to himself he would have spent his day in obscurity. His greatness cannot be credited to natural endowment. He became brave because he met face to face with God. His courage was not inborn courage, but imparted courage. It took the "fear not" of Jehovah to stiffen his backbone. That is what religion does. The fear of God removes the fear of man. The sublime moral heroism of the world has mostly been on the part of spiritually-minded men, whose cowardice has been consumed in the bright furnace of faith. If Moses had not first met with God, he would not have dared meet with Pharaoh. There is significance in the fact that the heroes of recent developments in American life have been for the most part Christian men.

The Man Who Can Wait.

The twentieth century is in such a desperate hurry that its bridges are buckling, its big buildings collapsing and its men being sent to sanitoria. A modern person almost gasps when he contemplates the forty years of retirement which Moses spent in the wilderness. Yet there is no truth more plainly taught in history than this, that preparation must precede performance; that great goals must be waited for, as well as worked for. Enduring deeds cannot be done over night. Character is not a product of a camp meeting. One deep emotional experience does not make over a life. The slow and quiet accretions of the years are necessary to bring a spirit to ripeness. So he who would work for his fellow men and who would work with God, must be willing to take time, as Moses did.

A very human man, and no demigod, was this Moses; his fits of impatience link him closely to the common run of us. Yet these only serve to throw into high relief his essential patience. When he found what was God's programme, he was willing to wait on it. His natural impulsiveness is shown at the slaughter of the Egyptian, became well reined in before he reached Mount Nebo and had his first and last look over the Promised Land. Write it deeply that patience must be at the foundation of greatness of character.

"Where There Is No Vision."

"Where there is no vision the people perish," says the wise man. The salvation of any society is the men and women of imagination who dream dreams and see visions. This Moses had a seeing eye. He could see God in the bush, he could see God on the mountain top, he could see a nation in a brow-beaten, spiritless horde of captives. Countless obstacles confronted him in the great task he undertook, but he had the gift of seeing through and over the obstacles to the victory which lay beyond. This power of vision, which rises above the petty circumstances and which does not magnify the near at hand into the all-important is vital to poise and power in life.

If some people had a little more vision, they would be able to take a square look at the pettiness, puerility, sordidness and vanity of their own lives. They would see the inconsequentialness of most of the pursuits that engage their powers. They would be spurred to live for ends worth living for. Canaans, flowing with milk and honey, are the inheritance, not of the grumbling ones who are concerned primarily with food, raiment and physical comfort, but of those who pursue great ideals. This western world is a product of vision. Its greatness is assured until it loses its vision. That would be a worse calamity than the greatest financial panic that could overtake the country.

The Essence of Patriotism.

The patriotism of Moses was linked vitally with his spirit of vicariousness, which is the essence of patriotism. Moses lived and labored for the sake of others. His toils were not his own, but his people's. He loved his fellow countrymen better than he loved his life. For their sake he was willing to be accursed; for their sake he dared the wrath of Jehovah; for their sake he underwent all the rigors of the wilderness; from the first blow that felled the brutal Egyptian to the last sublime strain of his dying song, his thought was of Israel and not of himself. The devil looks out for number one; so do a great many people. But all those who bear in their spirits the marks of the Lord Jesus have a concern for their fellow men. They are burdened by society's woes; the ills that afflict mankind touch their hearts. Their lives are given not to any bread and butter existence for the mere maintenance of their physical selves, but to the great causes of human service and sentiment. There is one invariable test of greatness—no man is more than commonplace and small who is looking out primarily for himself. In this sense "number one" indicates the lowest grade.

It thus comes about that the world calls to its places of leadership the men whose unselfishness it has tested. In the long run, mankind knows the lovers of their fellow men.

The Interdependent Life.

The department idea of life has been talked about a great deal lately. Because the richest man in the world rather boasts of the fact that his life is divided into compartments, unrelated one to the other, others are being taught that a man cannot divide his life up into sections, to be judged only by certain parts. In the judgment days of time and eternity, a man must stand by his whole character, and by all his deeds.

It is noteworthy that in the prepared life of this man Moses, each part was built upon the other. He could not see it at the time—no man was ever able to measure his own life while it was in the process of construction—but subsequent events proved the vital importance of each experience in the life of Moses. Because the material of his whole life was sound and good, God could use it for a great structure.

This interdependence of the parts of life explains many human mysteries. We cannot understand the experience of the moments until they are long past; then we see how they and they alone made possible future greatness. The life that is in God's hands is bound to become a symmetrical life; but this can seldom be seen while the parts are being fitted together. Moses at Pisgah had his first vision of his own life in its completeness.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

THE PROBLEM OF THE CITY.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies, Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, Epworth League, etc, for September 29th. "Home Missions: Religious Progress in Our Cities."—Jonah 1: 1-3; 3-: 1-10: 4; 9-11.

By William T. Ellis.

The city is one of the big modern problems. It is so vast, so intricate, so unknowable a thing, that usually only phases of it are considered at a time. Some speakers talk of the city when they only mean part of it that is given over to poverty and vice. Others have in mind only the principal "down town" portions, when they talk of the city; meaning thereby the main thoroughfares, the hotels, the big stores, the places of amusement and the railway stations. Still others regard the city in an entirely material sense—its building, its industries, its wealth. A city is all these, and much more. And in any light it is worth studying as the greatest, albeit perhaps the most perilous, product of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

A city's sin is simply the sin of individual men and women.

Since human nature loves to look upon the dark side of things, we hear more about the evil of a great city than its beneficence. Yet the angels must rejoice over the good that is crowded into every large city. What a heavenly spectacle are the innumerable hospitals, orphanages, asylums, and institutions for dispensing a bewildering array of charity to be found in every great city of civilization. Every form of human need has been taken thought of by the modern city. There are homes for the aged and homes for foundlings; homes for the blind, homes for the deaf; homes for the cripled; homes for the consumptive; homes for young men and homes for young women; homes for waifs and homes for utterly outcast; homes for feeding hungry bodies, and homes for ministering to starved spirits. The amount of money spent for charity within the bounds of any modern great city amounts to a fortune every year. Let this be reckoned in taking stock of the city.

All the needs that human nature possesses everywhere it possesses in the city; and this includes the needs of God.

Of late years the churches have made a vigorous effort to grappie with what they call the city problem. Church extension and city mission committees, of varying efficiency, are common in all denominations. Preaching places, which ordinarily develop into full-fledged churches, follow the growth of population. Rescue missions are maintained in the congested sections. The foreign population is given special attention. Nevertheless, city mission work may still be said to be in an experimental stage. Nobody thinks that the remedies equal the needs. There is a vital something still lacking; so that the life of the average city may fairly be said to be less religious than the life of the same number of persons in the country.

A city ministers to a man's superficial and material needs completely; it is when his spirit is hungry that the city often fails him.

The church must provide more than prayer meetings for people if she is to meet all their proper needs.

Almost no attempt—certainly no adequate attempt—has been made by the forces of religion to minister to the general cravings of people for amusement. We condemn the theatre and the dance and offer no substitute. One will search a great city in vain for any considerable amount of entertainment which does not bear the church's ban. Church socials are no substitute for the drama. Coffee houses cannot take the place of saloons. When religious people seriously undertake to do for the city what the city needs, there will be many first-class places of wholesome recreation in every city—resorts which will compete, on their intrinsic merits, with the best that the world has to offer.

DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER.

Turmoil in England Over the New Marriage Bill.

The recent issues of the London Times to hand bear testimony to the agitation in ecclesiastical circles occasioned by the passage of the law permitting marriage with a deceased wife's sister. The bill was amended in the House of Lords by the addition of a provision which leaves to every incumbent full discretion as to whether or not he will solemnize such a marriage if requested to do so. If he declines, it is again left to his discretion to say whether or not he will sanction its solemnization by another clergyman in the church which is under his control and care. This discretion covers, of course, the proclamation of banns.

It is already evident that the bishops intend so to apply this provision as to prevent the solemnization of these marriages in the churches of the Church of England. "We shall," said the Archbishop of Canterbury, in a letter published in the Canterbury Diocesan Gazette on the very day that the bill became law, "serve best the interests of the church and people by not solemnizing such marriages or furthering their solemnization in church. This counsel may appear to some people to be unreasonable, knowing as we do that there are many good Christian men who believe that these marriages, now sanctioned by the law of the land, are also compatible with what they regard as a true interpretation of the teaching of holy scripture, and even of the early church, respecting marriage. I shall be ready in due time to explain the reasons which make me believe in the wisdom and propriety of the course which I recommend."

Other bishops have followed the example of the head of the church. "As the law now stands," says the Bishop of Exeter, "I counsel the clergy neither to celebrate such marriages nor to allow their churches to be used for them." The Bishop of Southwark and the Bishop of London have also taken strong ground against permitting these marriages to be solemnized.

Among the minor clergy, however, opinions to the contrary are not unknown. Canon Henson, of Westminster abbey, a well-known Liberal churchman, in a letter to the London Times, deals severely with the Bishop of London. "For the first time since the Reformation," says Canon Henson, "the clergy of the national church have been legally excluded from the protection of the general law of which they know neither the exact nor the precise meaning, nor the constitutional sanction." After protesting against the attempt "to organize opinion within the church so effectively that a clergyman's liberty of action will be destroyed," the canon continues:

"The bishop creates conscientious scruples in his zeal to satisfy the vehement zealots for whom alone he has a heart to sympathize, or a mind to think. No church has set such store by loyalty to the state as the church of which the bishop is a chief officer. None has placed the claim of the state to Christian men's respect so high. There is nothing in the New Testament clearly adverse to marriage with a deceased wife's sister, but there is much which clearly and categorically prohibits civil disobedience. It is irrelevant to urge the supreme obligation to obey one's conscience in an argument which throughout is concerned with the political question of conflicting external jurisdictions. I know no reason why a Christian Englishman should not be conscientiously convinced that the parliament of his country in 1907 is a more efficient and morally respectable instrument for expressing the mind of the divine society of the church than the convocation of 1604."

Lord Galway, in a letter to the same paper protests against the action of the bishops. "If I had thought," he says in a letter, "there would be this deliberate attempt to coerce clergymen not to allow the churches to be used for these marriages I should have endeavored by an amendment to make such permission compulsory on the clergy, and I feel convinced I should have done so successfully. I trust other bishops will not be persuaded to follow the example set them; as, should it be found that all churches are closed to these marriages, it will clearly be necessary to bring in another short bill to insist that the law of the land and the intention of parliament shall prevail."

OIL FOR WARSHIPS.

Revolutionary Change in Fuel System Decided Upon by the British Admiralty.

According to information which reaches a correspondent of the London Daily News from the inner circles of the admiralty, the government has decided to substitute oil for coal at the British naval bases throughout the world. It is asserted that the government already has made heavy purchases of oil in Texas, Roumania and Galicia, and is also prepared to monopolize the entire oil-producing field of Nigeria. The latter is still undeveloped, but the authorities are drilling on a large scale in places, where the surface conditions indicate plentiful oil deposits.

The government is keeping the matter secret lest it give rise to keen competition for oil on the part of the various navies, and not only send up the price, but complicate the problem of getting adequate supplies. Hitherto it has always been supposed that the world reckoned Welsh steam coal as an important factor in the British naval strength, since in the event of a crisis other nations could be denied access to this fuel.

The experience of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's government in this matter, as the Daily News correspondent is informed, thus far has been expensive. The Shell trust offered the government oil at rather more than 50 shillings ($12) a ton, delivered at the Falkland Islands. The Texas oil producers offered oil at 45 shillings ($10.80) a ton delivered on the coast of America. This proposition was accepted, but when the oil reached the coast the government found that tank steamers could not be had to transport it across the seas. The result was that the oil delivered at the Falkland Islands finally cost 87 shillings ($20.88) a ton.

The admiralty experts say that oil can be transported much more easily than coal, an dcan be trans-shipped at sea by means of flexible tubes under conditions that would make the transshipment of coal impossible. It is anticipated that when the British government's position with reference to oil becomes generally known there will be a great demand for this kind of steam-producing fuel for factories and locomotives.

The Natural Cure For Rheumatism
"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.
Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid th system of waste matter. If either of these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough.
One of these body poisons is UREA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—if the kidneys are inflammed—urea stays in the system—is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.
"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action of bowels, kidneys and skin.
This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that completely eradicates the disease from the system.
"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many time increased by the process of combining them.
"Fruit-a-tives" will cure almost any case of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF PINCH

A sharp shower had cleansed the dust-laden air, and old Pinch breathed in the mildness of the summer's night with the zest of any epicure in atmosphere. "It's good," he said, as he turned sharply into the square. "The night's the time fer me. Twenty year an' more I've druv by night, an' I still ses as it's good. None o' your 'ot, stuffy stick o' wood an' tare an' dust, an' crowds o' nervous ol' gents an' 'busses, an' the bobby's 'and like a turnpike at every corner, an' the 'ouses an' shops an' offices full o' people tryin' to swindle one another. Jus' the nigh empty roads an' streets, an' the rap, rap o' the ol' mare's 'oofs, an' the 'undreds an' thousands o' yeller lights, an' most people too busy sleepin' to do any swindlin'. Yus! Gimme the night."

He walked into the place in the rank, and eyed the two other cabs there critically. "The ol' pair," he chuckled. "Potty an' Ginger Bates. Like bloomin' twins, them two."

As he entered the shelter, Potty was holding forth upon the penury that seemed to have assailed all his clients that evening, instancing one gentleman who, according to Potty, weighed about three hundred pounds. He had apparently been driven two miles less forty yards, proffered a shilling, carefully listened to Potty's expostulations, and finally produced his card. "An' may I never smile again," concluded the much injured, "if 'e wasn't a perishin' lawyer, an' 'e said 'e'd be wery pleased to take my case if I thought of suing 'im! 'Ow are yer, Pinch?"

"Curious," remarked Pinch, nodding to indicate that his bodily health was excellent. "Fat folk ain't often like that. Amiable an' 'armless I've usually found 'em. There wuz a man I knew once, as nice a man as ever wuz, only fat as—as—fat; used to reckon 'is own weight in 'undredweights, 'stead of in stones like ordinary people. Nice a man as ever wuz, too. I used to drive 'im frequent from Charin' Cross to Ludgate Circus, an' 'e allus gimme 'alf-a-dollar. Well, I wuz sayin' 'e wus the fattest man I ever seed. It's a fac' wot I'm tellin' yer now, but I've seen 'im stop sudden arter walkin' slowly along, an' the mere exertion of stoppin' sudden 'as made 'im sweat till 'e looked as if 'e'd been out in the rain. All the hosses in London kebs knew 'im, an' if they piped 'im 'ail the keb they wuz drawin' they'd bolt like blazes. I wuz about the only one 'oo could manage 'im, 'cause, yer see, the 'oss I wuz drivin' then wuz wall'eyed on the near side, an' by slippin' round the back o' the keb an' gettin' in from the road, the 'oss never knew 'e'd been done till 'e started pullin', an', o' course, 'e couldn't bolt then, 'cause the ol' man wuz too 'eavy."

"It's rum 'ow some fares wot looks quite 'opeless from the financial point o' view turns out good eggs; an' it's just like that the other way about, 'too," remarked Ginger. "I picked up a man wot looked a cert. for a bob extry. Fine-lookin', well-dressed chap, 'e was, an' I reckoned that extry bob as good as in my pocket. But, lor'! 'e jumps out an' 'ands me a bob for a two-mile trot as calm an' nice, never turnin' a 'air. I looked at the shillin', an' I looked at 'im, an' I ses to 'im, 'Call yerself a gentleman?' ses I; an' 'e smiles sarcastic an' ses, 'Haw, I am usually considered to possess the hinstinks of a gentleman—haw.' So I ses, 'Haw, well, you may 'ave the bloomin' hinstinks, but you hain't got the bloomin' 'abits, an' the hinstinks ain't worth tuppence 'longside o' the 'abits,' ses I, an' I tell yer 'e didn't look quite so satisfied with 'isself."

A faint jingling of bells floated through the air as Ginger concluded, and a few moments later Bill Jones entered.

"Wet oh, Pinch! 'Ow are yer?" said he. "'Aven't seen yer fer ten days, wuz lookin' everywhere fer yer yesterday; looked in all the likely places I could think of, an' drew blank every time."

"Oh," said Pinch, mildly, but with a trace of suspicion in his tone. "An' wot might you call all the likely places?"

"Why," replied Bill, "I went into all the cubs round your way, an' asked sev'ral p'licemen if they'd taken you up, but you 'adn't been seen nowhere."

"A man," retorted Pinch with some heat, "a man wot wants to git drunk, an' goes into all the pubs 'e can find on the excuse o' lookin' fer me, is a man in the wery fust rank o' liars."

"'Ush!" said Tom, with mild dignity. "'Ush, gents! This ain't the 'Ouse o' Commons."

A general laugh greeted this caustic allusion to an almost forgotten episode, and peace reigned. Bill demanded coffee, drank, and threw his head back with a laugh.

"One o' the rummiest goes I wuz ever in, it wuz," he said apologetically and explanatorily. "T'other night—'aven't seen yer since—t'other night wuz trottin' empty through Russell Square 'bout twelve o'clock, an' spots an ol' cove clingin' to a lamp-post. Drew up, o' course. Lor'! 'e was squiffy. Got 'is 'at over 'is eyes, wuz 'oldin' the lamp-post both 'ands, an' wuz cryin' as if 'is 'eart wuz broke. I got down an' shook 'im. 'Keb, sir?' I ses. 'E looked at me, dozed-like. 'I've been an' forgotten it,' 'e ses; 'I don't know wot I shall do.' 'Comon, sir,' ses I. 'Get inside an' lemme drive yer 'ome.' 'Ome!' ses 'e. 'Ome, I daresn't go 'ome. Look at this!' and 'e 'eld out a handkerchief to me. It 'ad got a big knot tied in one corner. I looks at it, an' 'e starts sobbin' an' sighin' again. 'Well, wot about it?' ses I. 'Se that knot?' ses 'e. 'Yus,' ses I. 'My wife put that there,' ses 'e, 'to remind me to get 'er somethin', an' I've forgotten wot it wuz.' O' course, I busted out larfin', an' 'e looks at me. 'You don't know my wife,' 'e ses, dryin' 'is eyes. 'You don't know 'er. I wish I wuz dead.' Then 'e strated off again. I think 'e must 'ave been drinkin' gin all night. Presently 'e sobered up. 'Cabby,' ses 'e, 'yo're the only fren' I've got. I'll 'ire yer keb fer the night, an' got to sleep in it.' Well, I got him in the keb, but 'e wouldn't tell me where 'e lived. Sed I didn't know 'is wife. I druv to ol' Pringle's pub, 'ad a dog's-nose myself, an' made 'im swaller one o' Pringle's Particulars, with a dash o' red pepper. It nearly paralyzed 'im, but it woke 'im up, an' 'e got out, took 'is boots off on the kerb, gave me 'is card, tellin' me to call next day, sed I wuz 'is only frien', an' crept up the steps into 'is 'ouse.

"Nex' day but one I calls there. 'E wuz as 'appy as a sandboy, gave me a quid an' a whisky-soda, an' 'is blessin'. 'Fore I come away, I felt curious, so I ses, 'Scuse the liberty, sir, but wot might it 'ave been that you forgot?' 'Ush,' ses 'e; 'not a word! Twuz two o' the club fellers did it, knowin' my ways,' an' 'e flung 'is fat ol' self back in 'is armchair, an' laughed, an' laughed, an' laughed for so long, I thought I'd clear out before 'e busted, an' there I left him, laughin' like that. I could 'ear 'im till I got outside the front door. Lor'! 'e wuz a rum un."

Framed in the doorway, the face of a loafer peered in with blinking vision. "Oose Number One?" he demanded. "Fare waitin'."

"That's me," responded Potty, snatching up his hat and buttoning his coat. "Pinch, where wuz yer really yesterday, when Bill couldn't find yer?"

The old man spoke, and his tones were tones of dignified sorrow.

"I s'pose it'll all come out," he said; "so I might as well tell yer. While Bill Jones wuz takin' all that unnecessary trouble, I wuz bein' 'ad. Me, sixty year old last C'ris'mas, wuz 'ad, done brown."

Incredulous amusement blending with concern on the faces of the others bore gratifying testimony to the esteem in which Pinch's pawkiness was held. Potty's fingers ceased fumbling with his buttons, and he gazed at the old man dazedly. The loafer's eyes peeped in again. "Toff wants to know if yo're asleep or only drunk," he announced.

"Comin'! Comin'!" said Potty. "Pinch, don't tell 'em. For goodness sake don't tell 'em till we're all together again."

A beam of importance shone in the old man's eye.

"Wery good," said he; "I won't. It'll wait."

"'Zackly!" said Potty. "And I can't. Good-night, mates."

MINISTER RESIGNS.

His Counsel Object to Ruling of Clergyman Who Presides at Church Trial.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 27.—Rev. Wilbert P. Ferguson, of University Place, today resigned from the State Methodist conference rather than proceed with the church trial in which he was being tried for unbecoming conduct with Mrs. E. Cross, a member of his congregation. His counsel declared the withdrawal took place because of the prejudiced rulings of Rev. J. T. Roberts, presiding at the trial. They declared that the ruling preventing depositions reflecting on Mrs. Cross was highly unfair.

GAOL TO HOLD 10,000 ASIATICS

By the author of "The Asiatic Danger in the Colonies."

Will the Transvaal have to build a new jail to accommodate 10,000 Asiatics? Or will the first law passed by the first elected parliament be successfully defied by the eastern peoples within her borders?

These are the questions South Africa is asking to-day. And they are questions which the whole Empire should note. For the Transvaal's latest troubles raises an issue of the greatest importance. The Indians in the colony have armed themselves with the weapon of the British Nonconformists. They have become passive resisters. They sit down and stolidly refuse to obey the law of the land. They are prepared to be sent to jail, or ruined in business, or deported. But they will not be registered by act of parliament. The deadlock is an awkward one. What the Asiatics in the Transvaal do to-day the Asiatics in Natal, or Australia, or British Columbia may do to-morrow.

Why There Is Trouble.

Briefly, the facts are these: There are in the Transvaal some 12,000 Asiatics—exclusive, of course, of the Chinese mine coolies, who do not come within the new act. It is declared by the administration that their numbers are being constantly added to by the influx of newcomers, who get in on the strength of false permits or without any permits at all.

It was resolved, therefore, to find out precisely who are entitled to reside in the Transvaal, and for this purpose there was passed the Asiatic Law Amendment Ordinance, which, although not assented to in the days of the nominated legislature, was allowed by the Imperial authorities when passed by the self-governing colony. This law calls upon every Asiatic to apply for a registration certificate, and on the form asking for this certificate every Asiatic male over eight years of age must place his finger impressions.

The government decided to put the act in force district by district. They began with Pretoria, where the Asiatics were called upon to register between July 1st and July 31st. Led by the British Indians, the Asiatics refused. They placed pickets outside the registration office, and the official appointed to receive the applications sat all day and every day waiting for Asiatics who did not come. Then it was decided to receive applications secretly at night at private houses. Forty Memons gave in, and it is believed another 30 or 40 Indians applied. But in Pretoria alone 1,600 Asiatics defied the law, and assuming that the proportion is maintained in all the other districts there will eventually be over 10,000 Asiatics liable first to a fine of £100 or three months' imprisonment, then to the loss of their trading licenses, and finally to deportation.

Indian Objections.

The Indians object to the principle of the act and also to its provisions. They declare it is class legislation of the worst type. They say that if every man in the Transvaal were called upon to register they would register as quickly as anyone. But when they are singled out by law they refuse. They protest that a precedent would be created. They say that once the principle of special legislation is admitted in the statute book there is no guarantee that it will not be expanded and that they will be forced to live and trade in special locations, pay special taxes, and in fact be treated differently from other British subjects.

But there are weak spots in the Asiatic case. In the first place, the finger impression system is widely used in India without any talk of degradation and humiliation. It is employed in numberless business transactions; it is used every day in the Indian army. Therefore it is claimed that the outcry in the Transvaal is exaggerated sentimentalism. Moreover the Indians have given their thumb impressions already. They consented to Lord Milner's registration by this method. If one impression, why not ten?

Again, the Indian committee in London suggested to General Botha that Asiatics with some degree of education, able to sign their names plainly, should be allowed to place their signatures on the application forms instead of their finger impressions. This is a reasonable idea. But I am assured that the Transvaal Indians refused point-blank to accept the suggestion of their own London committee. They repudiated the idea of distinctions, and insisted that the university man must be treated in precisely the same way as the street hawker. This is a curious argument, and one which every student of the color problem in South Africa has rejected. It is the antithesis of Cecil Rhodes' plea for "equal rights for every civilized man."

The "Squeezing-Out" Process.

The Transvaal public as a whole refuse to admit the arguments of the Asiatics. They declare that the Indians who are entitled to live in the colony must be identified. It is impossible to go on issuing permits indiscriminately and allowing numbers of newcomers to enter the colony.

In the circumstances the Europeans of the Transvaal are entitled to some protection. Whatever may be said to the contrary, Asiatic competition is a serious thing in South Africa, and the deeper the depression the more serious it becomes. White families are being "squeezed out" by the hundred. The exodus to other lands continues. But the Asiatic trader is immovable. He survives; he grows in numbers. This may be regarded as evidence of his thrifty habits and business ability. But it is no satisfaction to those who are trying to build up a white station in South Africa and make the sub-continent a source of strength, instead of weakness, to the Empire.

Will the Transvaal government build a new jail? Or will they admit defeat?

THE BOHEMIAN.

A score or more of the brightest of American humorists tell in the October Bohemian the secrets of their craft in an article entitled, "How a Joke Is Made." The article sparkles with witty stories and humorous illustrations. Another article, entitled "Being a Model," will dispel many mistaken notions regarding the artist's model. Miss Blanche Bates, whose work on the American stage is attracting much attention, contributes to the October issue an account of her life, entitled "My Yesterdays."

The leading humorous feature of the number is "The Autibiography of Cupid," edited by Edward Marshall. In this feature the little god makes a clean breast of his long and busy life. "Here and There," as usual, overflows with attractive engravings and storiettes of persons in the public eye.

The short stories have the usual bright quality. They are: "Back to Nature," "Doctor Pro Tem," "The Patent Adjustable," "The Heart of the Fox," "The Stowaway," and a group of crisp "Ten-Minute Stories." These attractive contents are reinforced by some very pretty verse and by a welcome amount of humor and satire.

When terrified the ostrich travels at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, and clears from twelve to fourteen feet at a stride.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person the sole head of a family, or male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for homestead entry must be made in person by the applicant at the office of the local Agent or Sub-Agent. Entry by proxy may, however, be made on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

An application for entry or inspection made personally at any Sub-Agent's office may be wired to the local agent by the Sub-Agent, at the expense of the applicant, and if the land applied for is vacant on receipt of the telegram such application is to have priority and the land will be held until the necessary papers to complete the transaction are received by mail.

In case of "personation" the entry will be summarily cancelled and the applicant will forfeit all priority of claim.

An application for inspection must be made in person. The applicant must be eligible for homestead entry, and only one application for inspection will be received from an individual until that application has been disposed of.

A homesteader whose entry is in good standing and not liable to cancellation, may, subject to approval of Department, relinquish it in favor of father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister, if eligible, but to no one else, on filing declaration of abandonment.

Where an entry is summarily cancelled, or voluntarily abandoned, subsequent to institution of cancellation proceedings, the applicant for inspection will be entitled to prior right of entry.

Applicants for inspection must state in what particulars the homesteader is in default, and if subsequently the statement is found to be incorrect in material particulars, the applicant will lose any prior right of re-entry, should the land become vacant, or if entry has been granted it may be summarily cancelled.

DUTIES.—A settler is required to perform the conditions under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such homesteader the requirement as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirement may be satisfied by residence upon such land.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST MINING REGULATIONS.

COAL.—Coal mining rights may be leased for a period of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 per acre. Not more than 2,560 acres shall be leased to one individual or company. A royalty at the rate of five cents per ton shall be collected on the merchantable coal mined.

QUARTZ.—A person eighteen years of age, or over, having discovered mineral in place, may locate a claim 1,500 x 1,500 feet.

The fee for recording a claim is $5.

At least $100 must be expended on the claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in lieu thereof. When $500 has been expended or paid, the locator may, upon having a survey made, and upon complying with other requirements, purchase the land at $1 per acre.

The patent provides for the payment of a royalty of 2½ per cent. on the sales.

Placer mining claims generally are 100 feet square; entry fee $5, renewable yearly.

An applicant may obtain two leases to dredge for gold of five miles each for a term of twenty years, renewable at the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

The lessee shall have a dredge in operation within one season from the date of the lease for each five miles. Rental $10 per annum for each mile of river leased. Royalty at the rate of 2½ per cent. collected on the output after it exceeds $10,000.

Conservative Buyers.

Conservative buyers are in nine cases out of ten readers of advertisements, and two-thirds of the remaining tenth are influenced by popularity of a firm, and advertising is a sure road to popularity. Any way one is pleased to regard advertising, the proof that it pays in every form of mercantile endeavor is plentifully at hand. To believe that your particular case is an exception to the rule is a deliberate blinding of yourself to the possibilities of your business—a neglect to gain the best return from the capital you have invested.

A Serious Question.

A persistent bad cold will run into consumption unless it is relieved in time. So it is with the little daily wants of the people—they grow serious if not promptly filled. You can afford, for instance, to have that house tenantless for a little while, but when it continues tenantless month after month it becomes a serious matter. The timely "want" ad. ends the trouble.

Late Arrivals are Indeed Very Pleasing

GRATIFYING, INDEED, ARE THE NEW ARRIVALS IN SCREENS—those useful and decorative articles of furnishings for the home. Many appreciate the usefulness of screens but too many have never investigated their merits. To the latter we especially ask for investigation of these latest arrivals. Some of the most delightful "Screen Ideas" are to be seen in these captivating styles with which you'll surely fall in love.

Try one to screen you from the Winter Drafts or from the Grate Fire's Heat; to hide a—well there are heaps of places you can use one.

They come in Weathered and Golden Oak with fillings of Burlap and Denim of pleasing colorings, and some all wood. Some with Tapestry panels that are very attractive. One delightful style in Paneled Oak that strikes us as being out-of-the-ordinary. Three and four fold. Better see these to-day.

WING WONG WAS A GOOD RIDER

BRONCHO BUSTING A GOOD ATTRACTION

Result of Yesterday's Competition Among the Cowboys--Klootchman's Race Again Put on

The broncho-busting contest is being fought to a finish this afternoon, Blatchford, of Calgary; Tom Graham, of Monte Creek, and Hans Richter, champion of British Columbia, being left in for the final. Yesterday two very good exhibitions were given by Graham and Blatchford, while Richter had the misfortune to ride a tame broncho. Chilliwack Cherub, which successfully threw Basil on Thursday, refused to buck when the champion got in the saddle and contented itself with a quiet canter about the paddock. Richter will ride twice this afternoon to make up for this failure yesterday.

Tom Graham stuck to Sockeye in fine style, preserving his equilibrum with great skill. Blatchford, the little young Calgary representative, gave one of the best exhibitions of riding seen this week. He drew Cohoe for his mount, a wicked broncho with a nasty sidebuck that only a superb rider could resist. The tall Albertan proved its master, however, and tamed Cohoe for the time being most effectively.

Richter drew Chilliwack Cherub, and was greatly disgusted to find that his pony would not buck. The Cherub cantered about the enclosure, giving little attention to the champion's efforts to make it buck and then stopped. Richter had no opportunity of giving an exhibition and will ride twice today in consequence.

Francis Basil provided one of the most intersting features of the exhibition by riding half-a-mile standing. His clever feat was loudly applauded by an admiring crowd.

An invitation was made for any rider present to ride White Stockings, a fresh broncho with plenty of buck and kick in it. The only person to accept the invitation was a suspiciously tall and big-chested Chinaman, dressed in blues jeans and wearing an oily smile and a long pig-tail. Amid the cheers of the multitude the broncho was led forth and the husky Celestial, who was announced as Wing Wong, of Kamloops, vaulted into the saddle. He gave a very clever display of horsemanship and worked the bucking broncho till it was tamed. The crowd woke up to the fact that it was being duped when Wing pulled off his pig-tail and belabored the plunging pony with it. Wing, who was Oliver Walker, of Douglas Lake, until yesterday, received a big cheer when he got through with his pony.

The kloochmans rode an interesting race upon their big horses. The winner of Wednesday and Thursday was the winner of yesterday. She is an excellent rider and a thorough sportswoman, riding a fine race on any of the horses given to her.

¶ It is better to buy now than later—pick out the pieces that please you before they appeal irresistibly to somebody else. The chances are they will if you're not prompt.

Genuine Hand Painted Chinaware

There is much excellent chinaware decorated to imitate the free hand creations of the best floral, scenic and figure painters—reproduced so exactly that it requires an expert to distinguish the difference.

The process is decalcomanie-transfer and the most delicate shadings are possible of reproduction.

The same difference exists, however, as between a water-color painting and a lithograph—the difference between an original work of art and one multiplied by mechanical means.

To those who would have genuine original productions we would commend an inspection of some signed specimens just opened.

Surprising values.

COUNTER CLAIMS BY INSURANCE MEN

Bitter Feeling Against English Concerns Which Are Doing Business in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 28.—There is a bitter feeling against the English insurance companies growing out of the actions arising from the disaster of last January. It is charged that the companies are delaying the cases by technicalities. Their latest move is an announcement by counsel that the companies propose in the action to make a counter claim for the declaration that the loss sustained by the policyholders was caused by an earthquake. This means, if it succeeds, that other cases cannot be proceeded with because the companies would win under the earthquake clause. Merchants think that local companies should be formed to carry insurance. As the restoration of Kingston progresses the boycott of English concerns increases.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Commission Heard Representatives of the Customs Department at Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The Dominion civil service commission concluded its work in Toronto this morning when representatives of the customs department were heard. They asked for a minimum salary of $900, eight-hour day for outside men and seven hours for inside men.

In a memorial they stated that they thought the cost of living had advanced 50 per cent. within the past few years, while many officials had received the same salary for 20 years. It was suggested that officers who have been in service for a number of years should be allowed such increase as would equal the amount to which they would be entitled had they entered the service at the minimum. Dissatisfaction was expressed with the present retiring fund. It was suggested that the governmnt add an amount to the salaries equal to that taken off for the retiring fund and then allow four per cent. interest of the total.

The Best of Beds Now on Display in our Showrooms

We have been headquarters for METAL BEDS for a long time now, and each year's showing has been a decided improvement over what has gone before. But in this, our present display of desirable Metal Beds, we submit for the inspection of Victorians and all other residents of B. C. what is, wothout doubt, the most elaborate ever submitted by any dealer in the province.

The stock of Brass Beds contains some of the most beautiful designs we have ever seen. They are the product of the world's largest factory, and represent the very newest and best. They represent in actual weight in brass and in the quality of materials and workmanship that enter into their construction, the best values obtainable.

Similar superior qualities are to be seen in the Iron Bed Stock. The style-creations are works of art in design, yet practical in construction. The castings are cleancut and the color combinations exquicite. We extend a cordial invitation to inspect this stock.
